

Farcical Syria Peace Talks

by liz Friday, Feb 14 2014, 10:09am

international / prose / post

A short revision of events reveals that the principal US supported rebel force was ousted by various fundamentalist Jihadist groups that took a dim view of any Muslim group supporting US/Israeli objectives.

At least three large factions, not including US puppets, essentially took over the fight. However, the absurdity of these so-called peace talks is that the only rebel group involved is the ousted US supported group, now the most inconsequential group in the fight.

Assad officials are aware they are not dealing with the principal players but are engaged in talks for political reasons and to avoid foreign powers accusing the government of refusing to negotiate peace. The fact remains that peace could only be achieved with full representation from all fighting factions -- something that is currently impossible, as some factions are not interested in making any peace deals whatsoever, they believe they are on a religious mission from God, fuckin' inbred morons.

I really do not know who the US intended to deceive outside their own uninformed moronic population, but really, this absurd situation makes the Iraq WMD fraud look credible and the mad hatters tea party look like a convention of rational intellectuals!

Designed to fail 'peace talks' facilitate foreign intervention!

Other US 'success' stories include, Afghanistan which is now reverting to Taliban control; debt-free, integrated Libya is now a nightmare of tribal and factional conflicts and is in debt to Zionist bankers for billions of dollars; Iraq is a breeding ground for international terrorists; the legitimately elected government of Egypt was deposed because the US did not approve of the electorate's choice!

Great work America!

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1002.html>