

Rainbow Harp

by Lily Sunday, Sep 9 2012, 12:37pm international / poetry / post on certain days

when rain, sun and sky allow you can grasp rainbows
from the sky
and separate each colour to make a seven string harp that plays cosmic sounds which resonate (hum) modulate and pulse through Being corresponding centres

in the body
activate sympathetically, the seven colours of the rainbow harp combine to form clear white light, the seven corresponding centres of the body harmonise and become essential Self your original nature
before cultural superimposition

on other days
the seven centres of the body synchronise along the spine and form a flute
the melody of which
captures and subdues
turbulent minds

the enchanting sound
creates vistas
in the sky
and opens doorways
to alternate states

and other realms
of Being

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-102.html>