

Bringing it all to a Head

by drew Monday, Mar 24 2014, 12:11am

international / prose / post

We have been working for over two decades to steer the US far right and other international extremist groups into a global military confrontation with Russia and China, now it appears that we stand at the tantalising threshold of our objective. It is not a matter of corrupt governments and pathetic puppet politicians (on all sides) 'huffing and puffing,' it is for those best able to capitalise on opportunity and seize the moment that larger more cumbersome forces are unable to apprehend.

I am now able to divulge, with some satisfaction, that the most fatal mistake you made was employing the Serbian OTPOR/CANVAS group, which of course are brothers in arms against those that would harm and attack greater Serbia, you rustic dunces! You imagine you are able to buy and exploit everyone and that other people/cultures also have no principles; not so, it is you that lack the abilities and principles to succeed in the long term as you are very short term dull thinkers with no staying power whatsoever -- the entire world is NOW aware of your critical weaknesses thanks to our efforts, you lame fools!

Your greed, impatience and brutality are OUR greatest weapons, steering a dumb beast was simply a matter of applying a nose ring at the right time, during the Balkan campaign prior to the bombing of Belgrade -- a crime for which you will pay through the nose, of that be completely assured.

It took us centuries to learn how to defeat empires from within but learn we did and defeat for the Ottomans is a matter of history. We are second to none at utilising existing political tensions to create conflict, would you care for another demonstration, the Arch Duke was merely a primitive but supremely effective example?

Today we do not use 'poison daggers' or common weapons we use digital and psychological methods and in this we reign supreme, though we share skills with some Russians on a digital level.

Any time WE CHOOSE we are able to create enough calamity and domestic disruption to force reactions, as we know how very little trust you have for each other. Be very afraid of our ability to intervene and co-opt almost any social or international crisis, the world extends no further than our keyboards and agents on the ground, you fifth-rate morons!

Gloating at this stage may be considered premature, but offering this information also serves to demonstrate TO THE WORLD how truly powerless and inept you are.

Please inform us what 'signature' you program into your civilian killing missile systems to strike when dealing with untraceable digital and social phantasms, you banjo playing rustics?

Whatever skills you acquire or technological advances you make, be aware that others are better able to utilise those skills and advances; we are simply quicker and much smarter than you; and be aware that your worthless dollar never buys the best. Nothing more need be said at this time -- sweat on it! You are now not making your own decisions, that is mastery indeed.

You do not believe, perhaps another convincing demonstration or two?

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1067.html>