

The Critical Prerequisite

by stacey Tuesday, May 27 2014, 12:50am

international / prose / post

To illustrate the point I would use the simple and logical analogy of building a 'house' -- a favourite among Masons. It is profoundly clear that before a house can be built a foundation is required something sturdy and enduring to support the structure. A strong foundation that is able to support the larger structure is prerequisite to building ANYTHING. Therefore, reason dictates that prior to any social revolution THE critical prerequisite is a strong foundation upon which reform is able to anchor itself, take root, grow and flourish.

It should be clear that in order to flourish change and reform require a sturdy enduring base. However, as has been and is evident, either by design or failure, the critical foundation necessary for lasting and enduring change has been lacking and in most cases completely ignored by modern reformers, and so by logical consequence all endeavours directed at reform and change, FAIL.

It is for the above simple but critical reason that every modern attempt at reform and social change has failed. It is not as the defeatists and counter-intel agents would say i.e. opposing forces hold sway by one means or another -- that simply is NOT SO, be absolutely sure!

The basis for all social change rests on the critical prerequisite of PERSONAL REFORM and change, without which no social change is possible -- please study the history of successful movements, especially religions, and the failed HOLLOW movements (especially Occupy) of today. Personal conviction stems from the transformation that should/must occur in the person before any change is possible in society.

Do not look outside yourself for leaders, pre-existing (usually failed) social formulas or PRE-SCRIPTIONS to SUB-scribe to; simply remember and return to your innate core values, which ALL HUMAN BEINGS SHARE, the WILL to justice, equality, freedom, harmony based on LOVE and PEACE. It is a PROFOUND JOY to surrender to our most sublime higher selves and share our new enlightened experience with others, be assured.

Do not hide your essential self or fear reprisals, which are inevitable due to the prevailing social MALAISE/plague. Engage society from the perspective your NEW vision/transformation affords; that new WILL, instinctively REJECTS all the perversity, violence, horror and FEAR of the prevailing perpetual war, nightmare social ideology -- notice how the prevailing ideology is the polar opposite of your core values.

You need not fight it as it fights, simply REJECT IT in thought, word and DEED. By withdrawing your support in this way you sign its death warrant and help facilitate the emergence of a new, cooperative, harmonious social system, which is based on your new transformed Self but you must first BE THE CHANGE YOU DESIRE!

Without a solid foundation social revolutions become circular and the reformation deteriorates or devolves into the system it replaced; indeed, the literal meaning of the word REV-OLUTION is exactly that, a circular process, beware! What we require is internal EVOLUTION not circular R-Evolution.

This is the quiet, stealthy, irresistible, supremely effective r/evolution that guarantees reform and permanent change, you already know it.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1153.html>