It is not often we see eye to eye with authoritarian narcissist Julian Assange, however, a highly accurate statement of fact deserves very broad publication.

Julian Assange

It is internationally known that Australian conservatives by genus are shameless cowards and incapable of standing on their own two feet without holding onto another nation's apron strings -- how thoroughly pathetic and tragic for Australia.

The Oz public recall to their great shame the head/face of John Howard -- former conservative leader and mentor to Abbott -- buried so far up Bush's arse that the poor imbecile Texan continues to suffer from constipation to this day. What an appalling SHAMEFUL exhibition Howard presented to the entire world.

Clearly, not much has changed in conservative ranks, COWARDICE, U.S. arse-licking and knee-walking continue to be the primary behaviours and characteristics of Australian conservatives, AND the sooner these despicable, disgusting, spineless dunces are turfed from office (THIS YEAR) the better for the nation.

George Brandis, Abbott's very conservative Attorney General, in a feeble attempt to emulate U.S. Sec. of State John Kerry's moronic comments relating to Ed Snowden, said that ".. Mr Assange should be man enough to face the allegations against him of being a sexual predator .." People could only wonder what an insipid COWARD, lackey like Brandis would know about manhood and masculinity! Regardless, it is evident that Assange hasn't lost his touch, notwithstanding he is looking very tired these days; read his superb and accurate response below:

"Courage is not the sole preserve of men, Assange said. WikiLeaks' female staff members, who squared off with a superpower over our work and brought Edward Snowden to safety during the largest intelligence manhunt the world has ever seen, have more genuine courage in their little toes than the entire Abbott cabinet."

Give 'em hell julie baby! I would add the extremely important note that Assange is in the highly restricted situation he is in today simply because he broke the CARDINAL rule of hackers, ANONYMITY!

Assange may choose to utilise all that research time he has on his hands to review his position on the official story on the 9/11 false flag operation -- you have got to be kidding toeing the government line on that OBVIOUS inside job and stupendous criminal fraud cover-up! I would add that we have been criticised for attacking you on this point and in general for your ridiculous high profile antics; however, you know as we know that YOU blew it, and that young hackers must learn the importance of remaining invisible at ALL times -- ANONYMITY rulz in this game julie, and you know it; enjoy your researches, dude, we're off for a night walk along the beach.

Attorney General George Brandis
