

GOD -- get over it!

As I look at all the historical accounts of religious wars I see them all played out today by religionists of various denominations -- man has created over 10,000 Gods since writing was invented just to give you an example of the screaming insecurities of the species and its need to hide behind some God or another and explain away personal actions as religious, which is a monumental cop out and supreme display of cowardice in not accepting responsibility for personal actions!

There are no Gods except those fabrications created by men primarily for political and other organisational purposes. The Salafis find expression today in the cult of ISIS and its followers just love to maim and kill in the name of their tortured 'holy' text and idiotic fabricated God. And do not think for a minute that Christianity or any other religion is immune from the social and cultural disease that Salafism presents. For instance, most Christians 'imagine,' and I chose that word intentionally, that Jesus or St Paul created Christianity, not so, it was created as a state religion by politicians namely Emperor Constantine and later the Nicean council in order to better manage the problematic growing population -- it is most expedient and far less costly to create a social control mechanism in the heads of subjects than to spend fortunes on police or military means of social control.

All religions have at their heart social control agendas which are plain to see simply by reading 'sacred' texts -- the obsession with human behaviour is manic and 'anal' to the extreme right down to prohibitions on fucking at certain times, notwithstanding the huge amount of other behavioural commands including how to dress and wear ones hair and what to eat -- I am surprised there are no rules on how to wipe your arse! For fuck's sake, it is a simple matter to see how these outrageous intrusions on one's personal prerogatives and liberty were designed to tame, harness and enslave -- there are no bigger fools today than believers.

It is also extremely simple to prove that State and other religions were designed to enslave, capture and utilise subjects for whatever purposes the priest class and politicians contrive, but rather than go on in a critical vein I would resort to plain REALITY to disprove the fictions and fantasy of religions.

Firstly, all religions are culture specific -- look at the God of the Old Testament, the text reveals quite clearly that HE is a homicidal, genocidal psychopath and greedy for money, including taxes, a text book murdering, thieving Jewish businessman, an oddity for an all-powerful God, don't you think? The fact that 'God' displays the entire range of HUMAN emotions, good and bad is also revealing as anthropomorphism is another give-away.

But let's perform a few simple tests. The universe is infinite and so its creator must also be infinite which means that God occupies all space and time therefore God could be discovered in pig shit and hell -- you can't have it both ways, infinity means omnipresent! The Aghori cult of India has taken the above to heart to the point of eating human remains from cremation grounds and other filth which they take pride in consuming, after all it's a religious observance, give me a fuckin' break again!

Now, if the universe and its creator are infinite that means no beginning or end, so where is the 'end time' or indeed the "six day" creation time? I'll tell you, in your fucked up moronic brain, that 's where, because it surely isn't present in reason and logical reality.

Remember that God is perfect, so if religionist morons are able to add 2+2 it means that this imperfect world we live in was created by an imperfect being, as perfection is incapable of error or imperfections -- take a look at the world today, what a perfect paradise it is!

I could go on for page after page but it's a waste of time as I am also aware of that infamous Jesuit declaration, 'give me a child until he is seven and I will give you the man;' and so it is futile to try and reason with a warped, indoctrinated, sick mind.

So continue in your delusions and erroneous man-made beliefs while you are constantly being screwed and utilised by nefarious priests and clerics, you dumbarsed, ENSLAVED imbeciles!

There are numerous cures for religion, plain reality, reason and FREEDOM, to name a few; the only miracle that is plainly indisputable is how incredibly dull, violent, cowardly and stupid all religionists are, and don't forget to keep dying for your fictional God, the sooner you all die the better, you mindless morons.

Religion is without peer as the most violent and destructive power culture has ever created, fact! It is the most toxic form of cultural pollution in existence today -- plain to see!
