

Media-Captured Oz Police and Security Agencies

Have you ever wondered about the REAL (miniscule) local terrorist problem in Oz? If unsure simply recall the recent failures of police to round up the 'hordes' of terrorists living in our midst -- something that government propagandists would love to sell successfully to the people, however, the cold hard facts continue to squash all American-style attempts to alarm citizens.

Six hundred (600) NSW police recently conducted dawn raids all over Sydney, they made two arrests one of which was released soon after -- brilliant! But it speaks volumes on the REAL danger, which is negligible as Muslim communities report most unwelcome activities in Mosques and so Oz can be proud of our cooperative and responsible Muslim community, which is doing the real police work for our blue uniformed CLOWNS. Talk about an absurd, fruitless, Mr Magoo operation.

Nevertheless, arch-conservative PM Tony Abbott, would just love to capitalise on a real threat as it would supply him with a distraction from his horrid pathological lying performances and detested social policies. Australia, clearly a foreign country to Abbott, who imagines that feeble American methods 'cut it' in socially aware and educated Oz, does his pathetic best, but Abbott is nothing if not a total lackey of Washington, even to his great cost.

After the recent suspect siege in Sydney's CBD the police were exposed yet again for their gross incompetence by taking the perpetrator off a watch-list and not heeding a tip-off 48 hours before the tragic event -- no excuses whatsoever, however, it does suggest a managed event which informed citizens are brooding over today.

After the police were rightfully trashed by all the mass and alternative media they were forced to take some sort of redeeming action, and so one individual was arrested, not the result of good ol' fashioned detective work but the mass media outlet (SBS) that depicted this ISIL sympathiser walk off a television talk show -- great work coppers, a blind elephant could see!

So there's the Sydney terrorist threat in a reality nutshell, two arrests without a verdict to date; sorry Mr Abbott and other opportunistic politicians that imagined the siege would have created panic and widespread fear in the community, Aussies are just too smart and socially aware for facile American 'crowd management' games.

But that's not the entire story regarding police incompetence, something much more alarming has become apparent, which does affect Oz society. I am referring to the underground trade in dangerous weapons, which the police and agencies have an appalling record controlling and I'll tell you why!

I had occasion to refer a matter regarding counterfeiting of critical computer hardware, which was costing Oz business and industry millions in computer failures, to the AFP some time back; I also had acquaintances that had served in senior positions in the AFP for many years as a feedback source, as they continued to socialise with active members.

After dealing with a wet behind the ears female AFP member, fresh out of uni, whose favourite phrase was, "I didn't know that," I wondered why no action was taken as I had in my possession numerous re-labelled and fake computer hardware EVIDENCE of widespread counterfeiting. A cursory glance at the 'evidence' was all it elicited at the time. So I interrogated my retired federal police contacts and was told the truth about the complaint I had made, 'it was not headline grabbing,' I nearly fell over on hearing the response, it was drug related activities that guaranteed headlines and beaming blue clowns in front of television cameras -- now do you understand why a moronic and violent criminal gang, 'brothers for life,' were able to easily procure automatic military style weapons and ammunition from the underground arms trade and spray a harbour luxury cruiser at Rose Bay in a feeble failed attempt to murder an opponent. The police were/are concentrating on headline grabbing crimes to the exclusion of other 'non-important' crimes which pose a very REAL threat to Oz society.

It is apparent that the clandestine arms trade is headline grabbing but still no news on progress in this regard or even the formation of a task forces to eliminate this REAL threat to Oz society.

Politicians must also shoulder much of the blame as they also seek media attention and are happy to share the brief limelight with our clown police; nevertheless, it has become clear that neither politicians nor police are truly interested in the welfare of the public -- cameras and staged events come first! What a thoroughly scandalous situation.

My hope is that both police and politicians do gain widespread media attention but for all the wrong reasons.

Near-sighted Mr Magoo
