

The Two Party Puppet Show

by jude Wednesday, Jan 7 2015, 10:53am

international / prose / post

Seriously, is there any thinking person in the world today that has not yet determined that major political parties, regardless of stripe, serve the same anti-democratic, minority, corporate interests? Personally, after years of observation I doubt it.

One need only observe the undisguised machinations of Rupert Murdoch, who supports and installs leaders from either major party in most western nations, especially Australia, the UK and the USA. This repulsive plutocrat no longer feels the need to even hide his actions in selecting puppets that serve undemocratic minority interests. So for those few that remain duped about major party politics, wake up and take a good look at REALITY.

Notwithstanding that the GLOBAL majority is aware of the absurd ruse, actions to remedy the situation remain rare or fledgling. The majority is yet to wake to the fact that it is they, via the electoral process, that installs governments irrespective of whether Murdoch and ilk throw their support behind known puppets.

The remedy is obvious, boycott ALL major corporate owned parties and install independents that REPRESENT the wishes of the majority, is that so difficult? Wealthy elites literally bank on the fact that the masses are disillusioned and usually do not vote or vote automatically for one or the other major party because they mistakenly imagine that independents and minor parties are not able to form effective government -- all bunk, could it get much worse than the current State of horrendous affairs? Well, yes it can, by doing nothing to eliminate the KNOWN problem!

So in order to break the vicious cycle of non-representative leadership simply never vote or support major parties in any way, shape or form; simply recall Blair and now Cameron reading from the same script and spouting the exact same Washington dictated nonsense and LIES regarding needless ongoing wars that only fill the coffers of the corporations that own both major parties -- a blind man can see!

The entire course of the world could change almost overnight if the average person snapped out of their media induced apathy and refuted the fake message of individual powerlessness; YES, it is every individual that makes the difference and to hell with the ignorant and socially paralysed, they deserve their fate.

There are many ways to restore representative government of the people and destroy the hold corporations have on most western democracies, the most accessible is of course voting but make no mistake many worthy activist groups today are doing a great job exposing the treachery of governments and the heinous and destructive influence of corporations that profit from perpetual war and social chaos. Simply take a good look at the result of corporate rule by proxy, Iraq is a basket case, Afghanistan is a ruin, Libya is an anarchic mess -- all due to callous, corporate avarice and their criminal puppet governments.

You/we are not weak, powerless or impotent, as mass media subliminal messages would have it; we are able to change the current perverse status quo any time we wish simply by redirecting our minds and actions to harmony, sustainability and REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.

We have seen the horrendous results of minority corporate rule and their proxy governments, it is now imperative that we RESTORE real democracy (majority rule) and establish equitable peaceful relations with EVERYONE -- division is a propaganda product of the corporate mass media. The only forces that fear unity and peace are those that profit from division, conflict, war and chaos -- surely that is obvious today.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1423.html>