We get no satisfaction in predicting the obvious before it becomes reality, spelling out the consequences of Abbott's arrogant actions after he contemptuously LIED through his teeth to the Australian people and STOLE the office of PM by FRAUD and calculated DECEIT, presented no challenge whatsoever..

From the first day Abbott assumed non-representative leadership of the nation we described, in the plainest possible language, the effect that his LYING, DUPLICITOUS actions would have on his Party and guess what? Two stunning State elections latter and the people of Australia couldn't have made it plainer -- they do not want a bar of Abbott or any LYING, abusive, conservative government.

Sociopath and NPD sufferer Abbott confirmed he will not resign or fall on his sword for the sake of his peers and party -- he also recently had the gall to take credit for the performance of his senior ministers. However, will Abbott now accept REALITY and the very clear message the Oz nation is sending him and his conservatives, not likely -- HE MUST BE PUSHED?

The tragedy for Australia is that the opposition leader Bill Shorten gave Abbott a free ride for the first year of his ruinous national leadership when Shorten should have had Abbott up on Fraud charges. However, some would forgive that obvious failing, but who is going to forgive the primary contenders for the leadership role in Abbott's Party? Senior conservative ministers have proven themselves to be cowards and weevils as they are leaving the challenge to a backbencher that has much to lose from a clearly hopeless challenge from that position - but what do front benchers care? Well, we have some news for them, the Oz people not only care they act in a very decisive manner and will not forget the gutless behaviour of senior Liberal ministers.
