

The Way Forward is Backward - for numerous reasons!

by kizz Thursday, Jul 26 2012, 4:29am

international / prose / post

It may appear counter intuitive but at times it pays to support your enemies or to hasten the realisation of some of their evil designs - I refer specifically to reducing the world's population to a locked-down and monitored slave workforce.

I should also make it plain at the outset that no strategy or oppressive design implemented by the mega-wealthy elites has yet to negatively impact on any of our members - in fact the opposite is true -- we belong to a highly skilled, highly informed and extremely mobile elite force. WE are at this time and shall make every effort to remain completely 'invisible,' anonymous and undetectable to the nefarious ruling elites -- 'their' (LOL) technology serves us more than it serves them.

This is the age of the SKILLED, resourceful and INVENTIVE digital operator and there's nothing evil elites can do about it, as their digital dependency is complete and their expertise in this field is notoriously wanting; they actually rely on fifth rate hackers for 'expertise' - lmao! So, you see morons, it's a done deal, we will always be beyond the reach of less skilled, rustic, marauding and mass murdering, thieving arsehole brutes -- and how very sweet that is! That dear reader is a REALITY you can take to 'bed.'

Now to the plight of the moronic masses, you poor things! Surely it should now be evident to esteemed and highly regarded, in some circles, social commentators like Chris 'xtian'Hedges in the US, and John 'lefty' Pilger, in the UK, to name only two antiquated dunces, that all their attempts to inform and mobilise the masses have completely failed - and for very good reason we would add.

Have you ever attempted to motivate mindless morons with no allegiance to anything other than themselves? When people lack social connection/coherence and a social conscience -- characteristics evil elites went to great pains via their education and media strategies to create -- the most heinous social evils become reality, as no empathy or sympathy for the other exists!

So, it is with haste that the evil elites implement their nefarious plans and designs today. They have effectively, by attacking the consciousness of the individual, eliminated most social opposition and threats to their plans/position.

Today, criminal Banker and polluting Corporate elites own politicians/governments, Courts, regulatory agencies/forces and the militaries of most democratic nations in the world.

Should WE be outraged? Well yes and no, we know the masses aren't worth a pinch of shit and DESERVE their fate, which will be horrendous in the near future, but we also know we are capable of breaching the piss-poor digital defences of their crucial military and civilian satellite systems - in fact we have made major gains and inroads in these areas and sooner rather than later the US, UK and Moscow/Beijing are in for an almighty shock! Did evil elites really imagine they would get away with the greatest crimes of the new century unchallenged?

We have undertaken with the help of leaders in specialised fields, who also happen to be members of our dedicated elite forces, steps to ensure that we have a leading position in the development of all (digital) systems elites wish to utilise for the future 'management' of the masses. In fact we have hastened the realisation of some of their nefarious plans simply because it has become painfully obvious that the masses cannot and will not move unless subjected to MASSIVE shock or constant pain and/or sustained intolerable discomfort, I regret to say!

The evil elites love us and it would be accurate to state that we have them in our 'palms;' they now find us indispensable - they have nowhere else to turn for the required level of digital expertise, nefarious elites have become completely dependent on us for almost all their digital requirements.

Now before you begin screaming cynic, allow me to offer the following in defence of our actions and current attitude; I ask YOU, which human population would tolerate living under a LAW that allows the military (not the police or usual social regulatory forces) to indefinitely detain individuals without charge, trial or recourse in any court to challenge the accuser? Now ask yourselves would such a tragically pathetic population be worthy of any consideration? If the masses are incapable of defending themselves in outrageous circumstances as outlined above they surely must NOT be given any consideration whatsoever, as they would clearly jeopardise any movement or prove highly destructive to any fighting or liberating force.

We are however, optimists, and if the masses decide at some stage to rid themselves of the evil minority forces that oppress and enslave them, we would assist but not until they demonstrate their intentions and unswerving dedication in that regard. In the meantime we assist ruling elites by hastening things along until living under the rule of nefarious elites becomes intolerable!

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-15.html>