

The Useless Hillary Clinton Debate on the Next Presidency

by shirl Sunday, Mar 8 2015, 8:11pm

international / prose / post

All one need do is take a good look at this woman's and her husband's links to the shadowy Bilderberg group. When Hillary Clinton was running against Obama for the Democrat nomination some years ago, the gruelling race was settled when both attended a Bilderberg meeting in Virginia. The internal party battle was settled at that meeting by the non-representative global elite; Obama runs and Clinton should wait for her allotted time, which is the next presidential election. A little research clearly reveals the sordid picture of a woman that is an undisguised servant of the self-serving global elite.

Hillary Clinton, liar (Sarajevo) and known servant of the global elite

The debate about Clinton, which has become a regular occurrence in various media organisations, including the alternative media, is all hot air, as the matter has already been decided. The global elite's media apparatus, directed by its CFR arm, will support Clinton for the presidency and so her success is almost guaranteed -- that is if the elite doesn't change its mind in the meantime.

The only hope of foiling this treasonous arrangement would arise from opposition by the people. However, as has unfortunately been proven time and again, the 'selected' contender would lie, cheat and do anything to dupe the population into voting for them and the only way the 'arrangement' could be combated is by public awareness and a real representative candidate, which is almost an impossibility due to the lack of social awareness and the enormous cost involved in running for the presidency.

Nevertheless, a concerted internet social and email media campaign by the people to expose Clinton for the minority-serving lackey she really is may tip the balance, but I doubt it as the USA has employed computerised voting systems which are easily tampered with. So face facts and perhaps develop effective strategies to ensure that voting is monitored by independent bodies.

Reality dictates that the only real hope for the thoroughly bought, corrupted and owned USA, is total REVOLUTION, such is the extent of corruption in America today. The only hope of real change would be to begin realistically, that is, to begin small, with local communities then expand to regional areas/groups and finally to mount a nationwide movement/campaign. It CAN be done!

Never forget the message of an old persistent adage: "the small always overcomes the large," -- the allegory of David and Goliath encodes this enduring social reality. Consider that David initially used stealth, speed and skill to overcome his opponent and then finished him with his own weapon, today that weapon would equate with the digital infrastructure and INTERNET. The world really belongs to the most skilled today, traditional State police/military power has become irrelevant to elite activists and Uber hackers.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1500.html>