

Intolerable

It simply is intolerable for any sane, civilised, peace loving human being to support a nation that adheres to a “perpetual war” ideology as its primary form of dealing with a wide range of existential issues/demands. Civilised, SANE societies base their existence and economies on peaceful production to enhance the lives of citizens – any nation that follows the most destructive form of activity known to man, WAR, though it temporarily profits an extreme minority, should never be supported by any sane person or nation -- that is self-evident. Yet the unfortunate reality for us all is that the world’s leading civilian killing, warring nation, AMERICA, continues to be supported. Clearly this situation is nothing short of INSANITY, as the culmination of “perpetual war” is NEVER peace and stability but absolute destruction – basic REASON dictates as much.

The United States is now fomenting what it hopes will escalate into a nuclear exchange between it and other competing superpowers, namely Russia and China – it deceives itself that it will prevail in such a horrendous scenario; it does this because it is losing its vampiric grip on world affairs as other nations constructively ascend in influence and power. The U.S. interpretation of this perfectly natural occurrence is reflected by an extreme pathological infantile behaviour that everyone is familiar with, “if I can’t have it then no-one will!” That sick pathology is now the driving force behind the recent events in the Middle East particularly in Yemen where U.S. vassals Saudi Arabia and other regional puppet nations, with full approval and support from Washington, have illegally invaded a sovereign State which poses no outside risk whatsoever; the thin and perfectly transparent pretext for the invasion is that it was initiated to support the ‘legitimate’ (deposed by local popular consent) government.

This outrageous military intervention on a sovereign State that has independently determined how it wishes to be governed, is the most flagrant, desperate and DANGEROUS act of the U.S. to date. Just as an unstable child is capable of burning down your house the USA is capable of destroying everything positive the entire world has achieved in its long evolutionary struggle out of darkness.

The proof of U.S. insanity is brazen and stark – “perpetual war” is the sickest imaginable ideology that has ever been recorded in the entire historical record. Research it for yourselves before you passively self-destruct – perhaps you may even wish to survive.
