The absurd mass media discourse that myopically sees only debt and austerity for the masses is a ruse, a distraction designed to lead the mindless, unthinking masses to believe there's no money available and everyone, excluding of course the mega-wealthy elites responsible for propagating this giant lie, must accept harsh belt-tightening measures in order to survive -- nothing could be further from the truth.

Money just doesn't disappear it re-locates, so where have all those printed trillions (QE) in stimulus, TARP and other packages, intended to lift hollowed-out economies, gone? The answer of course is to the ultra-minority elites that propagate the lie in order to facilitate evermore profit making/hogging enterprises, which of course translates into reality as accruing ALL the available wealth in the WORLD - make no mistake about this sick ambition as one percent already own forty percent of the globe's wealth. This situation is unprecedented and intolerable, it highlights an enormous disparity or imbalance in the distribution of wealth - it's as plain as day.

Recent statistics point directly to the 'disappearing' money trail and it goes, almost in linear fashion, into the pockets of less than one percent of the global population, the estimate is that this one percent has already accrued over 40 percent of the world's financial and resource wealth, an outrageous and extremely revealing reality. So in FACT there is no shortage of money, it simply has been disproportionately appropriated by greedy, heartless, callous and sick human beings; for this type of aberrant human genus too much is never enough and so goes the pathology of avarice driven by a profit-at-any-cost, myopic world view.

I could go on and describe how the elite-owned media has reduced the world's social and cultural discourse to money issues and economic only considerations, whereas reality and history dictate that money is only one of numerous means of developing societies; however, it is in the interests of the mega-wealthy to inculcate into the mass mind that money and its pursuit is the only option in the modern world and to HIDE the FACT that its obsessive pursuit is now destroying our lives and the planet - put simply money/profit obsession is now suicidal for the entire species and threatens the survival of almost every other species on the planet. One need only watch the corporate 'news' at any time to verify for oneself how this perverse discourse has gained dominance and how politicians obsess over money and the economy.

So let's do a little controlled obsessing ourselves by investigating the money trail and applying remedies to the outrageous disparities that exist today. Well, we already have and so we are left with applying remedial strategies to restore balance, equality and harmony, world-wide.

Corporations and Banks are the vehicles of the elites and as such must be regulated by (democratically representative) governments, not the bought, elite-owned western puppet governments of today.

The onus is on the people as minority elites have via their puppet major party politicians eliminated most of the regulatory measures and tax restraints that previous democratic governments installed in order to maintain balance, equity and social progress.

The cure is bloody obvious, blind Freddy sees that but the will and initiative of the masses has been subverted by mass media lies, propaganda and divisive strategies to manage the masses and lead them to believe and obey lying rogues and thieves -- which should be imprisoned for their innumerable crimes against the people - this practice is known in the trade as "perception management!"

Are we so stupid and apathetic as to allow this UNPRECEDENTED wealth disparity to continue? I hope not - eliminate by any and all means, if voting is gamed, the sick liars, rogues and puppet politicians and install representative government to re-regulate the parasitic banks and mega-corporations which are bloated on our life's blood/funds.

People as also led falsely to believe that enormous amounts of money are required to restore democratic government, not so. Historically social enlightenments are the result of better forms of communication and to date elites have failed to control the internet but they are desperate to do so, so be vigilant and bold and spread the obvious message via every digital means available. If you perform this simple task, it could almost be guaranteed that our nations and democracies would be restored and justice served - the status quo today is what it appears to be, a pathway to slavery, horror and hell - need I draw your attention to profit-making "perpetual war" and the enormous wealth disparity again?

The fate of the world has always been and will continue to be in the hands of the masses.
