

God does Not play hide and seek

by sophia Monday, Oct 1 2012, 12:48pm

international / prose / post

The absurdity of modern religion is its total lack of understanding; it is darkness pretending to light, or lies masquerading as truth.

Does it not stand to reason that an infinite, Omni-present God fills all time and space? Well of course, it is as simple as $2 + 2$! So the question is where is that God or rather, where is God not (present)?

Now that we have established that the infinite God is indeed in your/everyone's face -- are you reading this, you blind, fundamentalist, moron fanatics(?) -- you would appreciate that God is EVER present/available or accessible; so why can't you see or apprehend that God, you lost, dumb, literalists?

The answer again stares you in the face; simple logic dictates that infinity and the finite are mutually exclusive, so a finite being is unable to apprehend an infinite BE-ing -- 'finite' here is defined as that which is measurable or something that has a beginning and end.

You will note that thought is finite; it exists as a train or chain of continuous cogitations, each with a beginning and end. So following logically, your finite mind is INCAPABLE of apprehending the INFINITE, make sense does it, or am I distracting you from killing and destroying everything you touch?

We all know we exist; as such we are part of the eternal, infinite BE-ing, so what the fuck gives around here, how can I/we be infinite and finite simultaneously?

Didn't I just explain so even morons like you would understand? Your finite mind exists but veils/blinds you to your infinite nature. So what to do? The answer again is obvious, eliminate that which blinds you and allow yourselves to see everything as it actually is; creation has equipped you with everything you require -- you have been created whole, complete, it is perverse religion that would have you believe that you are lacking in some way and that only religion it is able to fill the void (that it creates) or supply a passport to heaven (hell actually).

Thought is habitual, in fact, in the materially blind Western world, thought is worshiped, "I think, therefore I am," stated Descartes -- notwithstanding he was actually affirming his IGNORANCE!

Nevertheless, if we undertake to quiet the mind it will eventually lead to pure awareness (God consciousness) rather than a noisy chain/train of culturally imposed chatter! Nice in theory, but in practice a little discipline and dedication are required to achieve results.

To that end I recommend the attached pdf ebooks, one with an Eastern view the other more Western; however, both methods achieve identical results, as there is only ONE Infinity -- make sense?

Enjoy and never allow any imbecile to indoctrinate you in the name of (perverse) religion again.

There ya go, you're FREE, the rest is up to you!

Peace.

 Collected Works of Ramana MahaRishi

 The Divine Philokalia

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-155.html>