

MH370 - Foul Play

The obvious answer is usually the correct answer, however, in western 24-hour-memory and attention deficit societies the obvious becomes blurred by not only the attention-grabbing but attention directing mass media, this unfortunate reality is exactly how it's meant to be according to the 'perception management' agenda of the ruling global elite – free analytical thinking is fast becoming a crime, just ask any real investigative reporter, or understand why western puppet governments are targeting 'sensitive' information disseminators.

Lying US lackey dunce, Tony Abbott

So let's take a look at the obvious regarding the 'mysterious' (not at all) disappearance of MH-370. Conspiracy theories aside, I refer to the illegal appropriation of revolutionary IC technology by the elite (Rothschild's) after rights holders travelling on MH-370, were killed; a viable but irrelevant topic for this piece.

Who publicly directed the search to the inhospitable and extremely deep Southern Indian Ocean? Answer, Tony Abbott the Oz PM. Now, what most Aussies know but others may not is that there is no government more compliant or obsequious to Washington than Australia's spineless parliamentary brigade, the two major parties vie to see which will serve Washington next – that is not to be dismissed, fact one.

Abbott a known pathological liar and deceiver, and an expert on nothing but idiocy and servitude to the US, a nation completely captured by the elite, suddenly announces, based on the flimsiest possible evidence, which happened to be a lost shipping container almost submerged in the stormy waters of that area, that MH-370 went down in the southern Indian Ocean. Enter the global aviation community which subsequently provided flimsy evidence of a flight path to that area, pure conjecture is the correct description for that conclusion but it wasn't an unintentional or accidental outcome; and so the search, costing hundreds of millions of dollars to date, has proved fruitless and futile, not unexpected by thinking, rational people.

Lying moron Abbott is the give-away as his mentor and predecessor John Howard was, lying Oz into the illegal invasion of Iraq, at Washington's request.

Nevertheless, independent aviation experts state emphatically that the on-board sequence of events prior to the disappearance was definitely not accidental, the jetliner's on board computer systems were either taken over by remote hacking, given that IC's now have secret backdoors designed expressly for that purpose, or that a member of the crew that had access and knowledge of specialised control systems systematically subverted communication and FLIGHT TRACKING systems, the former appears to be the most plausible assumption as it would be simplicity itself to suddenly increase altitude to cause decompression, thereby killing everyone on board but would not damage flight systems which would then theoretically be able to land or crash the plane in a specific location - this deduction, based on knowns, is the most likely. So it seems the plane was intentionally crashed somewhere far removed from the Abbott/Washington designated search area, probably in order to hide the obvious criminal slaughter of so many innocent people.

As specialists are aware highly sophisticated communications installations would be required to remotely hijack and control the plane. And the location of that installation would be the secretive US base on Diego Garcia in the WESTERN Indian Ocean. Human intelligence by Indian Ocean islanders of a large aircraft flying west is not to be ignored as it was a very unusual event for the islanders to see a jetliner in the area, well outside commercial flight paths.

The aircraft has not disappeared or suffered a genuine calamity its remains should be located somewhere in the Western Indian Ocean in reasonable proximity to Diego Garcia, if obvious observations and sensible deductions amount to anything these days - 'Abbott,' give the world a break!
