

To Wage Perpetual War

by cyd Monday, Apr 27 2015, 5:56am

international / prose / post

Whether by design, sheer stupidity or unbridled avarice (all three most likely) perpetual war is fact today and it is waged for the benefit of the elite few and their corporations/banks whose coffers overflow on the blood of millions of innocents with every pre-planned and engineered conflict.

Perpetual war requires an enemy that eludes defeat so after the demise of the Soviet Union western warmongers were without a corporeal enemy in the form of a communist bogeyman that not only resided in the USSR and China but also hid under the beds of Americans and other western populations subject to the propaganda apparatus of the western corporate controlled dis/misinformation mass media.

What to do? Simple, where no real enemy exists create one, and so the enemy was selected but never targeted, simply because that enemy is a noun, the word "terror." So how does one wage a war on a word? We have seen no dictionary burnings and raids on libraries as quite obviously waging war against a word is ludicrous. However, the plan was not hatched overnight by idiots - the idiots were the politicians that feebly and transparently executed the order and slavishly followed the elite agenda.

The homicidal psychopaths that developed the plan/strategy were well aware that by using a word they would be able to wage war on any person, State or group whenever and wherever they chose simply by labelling the target, 'terrorist;' and so the world is now a world 'of' 'perpetual war' and subjected populations -- western media ensures that we never forget the fabricated threat presented to us daily. [It is critical that the masses never forget they are 'threatened' and at war, in order for the elite to remain hidden and continue to reap the huge profits from the carnage and illegal appropriations invasive criminal wars offer].

Consider the first 'undeveloped' terror group, al-Qaeda, which never numbered more than a few hundred at its height, which were immediately accused of the attack on the New York twin towers - an accusation based on impossible 'evidence,' like perfectly preserved passports that survived an inferno without a singe and conveniently left flight manuals (in Arabic) left in a parked car at Boston airport - give me and thinking people a break!

However, the elite are consistent and learn fast so the media savvy, well equipped ISIL threat appeared as if by magic overnight to capture huge areas in weeks with a few thousand fighters armed with rifles and a few low tech weapons - an achievement that should have taken months or years, however, trained and well equipped armies of 30,000 strong abandoned their posts 'and weapons' and ran for it - in-credible and incredulous are the appropriate words to describe that absurd event. And so al-Qaeda, which failed to alarm the world was replaced by media savvy ISIL so that the new fabricated threat would become an immediate danger for any developed nation that has the internet; and how western puppet governments milk the ISIL threat which a little research exposes as a created proxy fighting group supplied and supported by US vassals and Israel and trained by US agents in Jordan and other 'secret' locations.

So the perpetual war on a word and the created threats that are commissioned and decommissioned at will proceed at speed regardless of how transparent the strategy and real perpetrators are.

Be sure to check your gullibility and under the bed tonight, a word and created (useful) threat are coming to get ya! Police State, anyone?

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1580.html>