

The Sociopathic Neocon Agenda Today

by judd Sunday, May 17 2015, 1:16am

international / prose / post

The neocon agenda, expressed in the PNAC document, which has been pursued by the USA from presidents Clinton through to Obama is basic and insane, world domination at any cost; notwithstanding that any nation group or person that aspires to global domination is plainly in desperate need of incarcerated psychiatric treatment. Yet this insane agenda has been pursued by both major US political parties for over 20 years simply because both major parties in the US and other western 'democracies' are literally owned by the same (malevolent) interests that adhere to the lunatic ideology of perpetual war, destabilisation and eventual (pipedream) world domination.

The non-monetary cost of this insane project/pursuit so far is about 5-7 million innocent lost human lives, horrific destruction, ruination and immeasurable hardship suffered by entire formerly stable nations. I cite Iraq, Syria, Afghanistan, Libya and a host other nations subject to US/NATO interference and extreme aggression/homicidal VIOLENCE. One need only review HISTORY - not news propaganda -- over the past two decades to verify the FACT.

And so today the pathological pursuit of a few lunatics has not only turned almost the entire world population against the USA, it has created a new coalition of powerful nations dedicated to survival as sovereign nations beyond the interference of Washington and Brussels. Russia, supported by China, has made no secret that if the US pushes any farther, they are prepared to engage the beast and destroy it, hence imbecile Kerry's recent emergency visit to Russia.

It is understood that Kerry made 'assurances' (?) and simply stated what Russia and its allies wanted to hear. Russian officials, desperate for sane, peaceful solutions where none exist (in an asylum) should know better, however, reports that Russian officials were "overjoyed" by Kerry's placatory position should be taken with concern or a grain of salt.

Sane and thoughtful Russian officials may indeed be blinded by their desperation to avoid war and the extreme blind optimism of hope, which America no doubt interprets as weakness. Russia and its allies may have failed to consider the IRRATIONAL, INSANE driving forces behind Washington and Brussels, let's hope not, but the distinct possibility that the USA is playing for time and preparing what it imagines would be a crippling pre-emptive strike remains a strong possibility.

All such placatory negotiations with an OBVIOUS AGGRESSOR in the past, WWII etc, resulted in backflips, renegeing and backstabbing; Russia, China and the rest should be very cautious indeed, notwithstanding imbecile alternative media commentators, Mr Escobar, are taking the Russian show of force and Kerry's visit at face value. However, what a broader perspective plainly reveals is that the neocons have not changed their lunatic pursuit or position in any way, furthermore, they seem to be buying time with the usual lies. That seems the logical interpretation at this stage. Until the WORLD sees KNOWN neocon CRIMINALS like Wolfowitz, Perle, Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, Blair on trial, I wouldn't believe a word that issues from the puppet White House.

What the WORLD has learned, at a very high price, is that the USA reneges on deals and then stabs in the back, Hitler style. It was native Americans that first coined the expression, 'forked tongue' and look what happened to them! The world had better appreciate the entire historical context and present US insanity before falling for errand boy Kerry's crap.

The overall facts continue to point to inevitable war, I'm sorry to say. Blind optimism and hope only lead to defeat.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1617.html>