

Social Apathy results in Abuses by Government Agencies

by jess Friday, May 22 2015, 4:38am

international / prose / post

It has recently been revealed that Oz spy agency ASIO, in league with other western criminal agencies, flagrantly and not so secretly attempted to gain access/hack all Android devices in order to pry and spy on ALL Android users, Google has very little to say about it as it has openly partnered with a CIA front company but that is not the major point - HACKING, as has been described (link below), is totally ILLEGAL. Agencies in most western nations must gain authorisation from the courts to legally spy on individuals or groups, HOWEVER, broad-based or pan hacking REMAINS COMPLETELY ILLEGAL under various communications acts and should be immediately challenged in the nations where this felony has been attempted or successfully perpetrated.

Faced with the outrageous criminality of these agencies, what do YOU suppose the masses would do to hold these agencies accountable and where possible, prosecute the principals behind this Orwellian manoeuvre? Answer, absolutely NOTHING, as the western invertebrate masses to which I refer, have been incrementally conditioned over the past few decades to accept State crime and the State eroding their once 'inviolable' rights, for which their fathers died to uphold. What a pathetic and sorry lot modern 'me' generations are!

Passively accepting this scandalous criminal hacking situation from government agencies is unforgivable, yet without doubt the public will fail once again to DEMAND an immediate cessation to all non-specific pan surveillance whether -- 'legal/recently sanctioned by puppet governments' -- or flagrantly illegal as broad based hacking clearly is.

Apathy and the absence of a necessary, vigorous social response is the crux of the matter, as of course those in power abuse the privilege. If we accept such outrages from the State, we the people, could soon expect far more oppressive measures in the near future - very plain to see.

Our combined failure to act on flagrant criminal activity perpetrated by States and their clearly inept agencies -- as if they do not already have enough new powers to pry and spy on the population -- essentially leads to slavery.

The current revelations must be met with a vigorous and lasting social response otherwise people can kiss the little that remains of their liberties and freedoms goodbye. And that is exactly what is hoped by governments, who clearly view 'easily managed' populations with the contempt they deserve.

<http://tinyurl.com/m7z45g6>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1624.html>