

Convoluting Guilt and the Criminally Deceptive Mass Media

by ned Monday, Jun 1 2015, 12:54pm

international / prose / post

The western world is suffering a mass media frenzy at the moment regarding the created Islamic bogeyman terrorist threat and is now focused on depriving citizens, nationals, of more rights, the right to statehood/citizenship in particular.

Murdoch's boy, traitorous Tony Abbott

After almost two decades of whipping the dying horse of the American made terrorist threat surely the global population has had enough? Consider the first most defining indicator of terrorism, killing innocent civilians; and who is the prime civilian killer in the world today, by a country mile, A-M-E-R-I-C-A, now chew on that REALITY for a while, you mass media lobotomised dunderheads and realise it's not alright when 'we' do it? America is a criminal terrorist State, pure and simple. Killing civilians is a heinous crime and hopefully it will remain so but judging by how easily the masses are manipulated by the media of DISTRACTION and propaganda -- America CONTINUES to slaughter innocent civilians as I write -- one can never be sure!

Numerous CRIMES were 'legalised' and rights eroded under the guise of "keeping us safe," safe from whom, the American State, get a fuckin' grip on reality and turn off all mass media 'news' if you wish to maintain your ability to add 2+2, dreamboats!

While innumerable State crimes hide behind the veil of blaming the other 'terrorist', people are now facing the very real push by elite serving lackey governments of having their citizenship cancelled by governments rather than law courts, which demand EVIDENCE! If brain-softened populations fall for the latest tired and transparent bullshit, then government representatives would be able to deprive people of their citizenship, a fundamental human right - do you think that is a push too far, for those still able to think?

Consider the FEEBLE excuse given by lackey governments, particularly the Australian, which has openly stated that not enough evidence would be available to convict a person of terrorism in a court of law, so let's just do it almost arbitrarily or on "suspicion," WHAT! That is the outrageous line the Australian dunce government is running with, yet no outcry just the usual passive acceptance by the brain-dead population.

This is NOT a matter for elite serving unrepresentative governments that have become so accustomed to shitting on the media comatosed public that they can't even think of a better excuse, which if looked at, morons, is not an excuse, it is a direct ATTACK on the LAW, which has evolved OVER CENTURIES to maintain our freedoms, liberties and protect us from criminals, like the American ruling elite and their puppets in Australia and other vassal 'States.'

If you imagine this matter is of no importance to you, I suggest you look up the word "totalitarianism" and then take a good look at the home of State crime, America, where police murder unarmed civilians in the streets with impunity. How could any population that calls itself democratic entertain the idea of a minister or other clearly unrepresentative government official taking the law into their own hands and deciding that someone is 'suspicious' and should be deprived of his/her Statehood/citizenship. Police State here we come, you brainless cowards.

It may also be appropriate to hold the KNOWN leading terrorist entities of this world, State and Federal governments, accountable for their obvious crimes, which continue because YOU allow it!

Furthermore, the next time Murdoch steps foot in Australia he should be arrested for deliberately interfering with the democratic process and installing his puppets in power, which he does OPENLY in numerous nations that support his propaganda enterprises. Now, let's all go back to sleep or turn on our distracting television sets, reality is such a bore.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1642.html>