

The Times are Indeed Changin' - for the Worse

by justin Wednesday, Jul 22 2015, 12:15am

international / prose / post

First let us consider a perverse Jewish ideological dictate that has shaped western thinking over the centuries. In the Old Testament, 'God' a fictitious character created in order to enslave many, says "subdue the earth," as though the earth is some sort of wild beast in need of the arrogant intervention of puny men, whose tenability on this planet, I might add, is entirely dependent on the harmonious laws of the natural world, but of course 'God' failed to mention that.

The earth is the product of an enduring perfect, infinite universe and surely the inherent, amazing 'wisdom' of creation speaks for itself.

Scientists constantly marvel at how the slightest, minute change in cosmic circumstances would have prevented life on this earth as we know it. Are we lucky, no, not by a long shot, we are the product of perfection which does not allow for minute imperfections to thwart or upset its harmony and balance?

And so we arrive at the point. Do not imagine in the slightest that our collective actions do not have consequences in the cosmic scheme of things, a very wise and talented psychic once stated that the collective consciousness of humanity actually affects our solar system including sun spot activity - now imagine that! What he was saying, I investigated the claim, is that the collective consciousness of humanity is a tangible energy and that energy if not in harmony with the greater scheme of things creates effects, good or ill depending on the greater or lesser degree of harmonious adjustment.

And so this psychic, Edgar Cayce, when questioned in trance - in normal consciousness this man was only of moderate intelligence and capability - he made the most astonishing forecasts, cured thousands of 'incurable' medical cases and explainable certain cosmological interrelationships of the universe and the LAWS of harmony that govern existence.

Now before you turn off imagining I am a Californian new age, space cadet, I would state that I am a tertiary educated professional with highly specialised analytical skills able to predict in the Orwellian 1984 sense, the consequences of certain social and even personal directions, which, I would emphasise, have no relation to airy-fairy imaginings as the strict disciplines and methodologies I was taught and employ are entirely rational, logical and have been proven over decades, though they are highly specialised in the semiotic field of analysis - I, and my professional colleagues, are able to draw an almost complete picture and predict events from the most insignificant (to most) sociological artefacts, which projections never fail to stun the uninitiated for their accuracy. Most in my profession act as consultants and command thousands of dollars per hour for the specialised services we offer.

Now to return to the point, which is what? The consequences of all our actions, including the power of the thoughts which shape our collective and personal destinies.

Are you brave enough to confront the reality of our time, poisonous pollution, perpetual war, conflict, unbridled avarice, selfishness and a lack of empathy or sensitivity for the other, now would you consider the above facts and behaviours a basis or formula for success? Of course not, so the consequences of our perverse actions will have profound effects on all of us, as the world is now labouring under the above named problems - which are in need of drastic remedial action, need I state? Now please do not attempt to escape into the responsibility-evasive tricks of religionists, as that is a monumental cop-out, we must take responsibility personally and collectively for the reality WE (not 'God') have created, as that reality is clearly not tenable, even in the short term.

Now, if we continue to ignore the prevailing status quo and horrid state of affairs, do you imagine that cosmic forces will not intervene to re-establish harmony and eliminate the causes of disharmony, which unfortunately for us happens to be the human race? You bet your life it will, as it is your life that you are rather foolishly betting with. Failure to act immediately to stem pollution and the sociological causes of wars and conflict, which reduce to greed and selfishness, have dire consequences as the infinite laws of inter-relational harmony are proven and very real indeed, so it's not too fanciful that a psychic makes certain claims to that effect.

What the world is already experiencing, if one follows real events, is that the planet is undergoing the early stages of massive tectonic changes, which have occurred numerous times in our geological past, some geo-physicists are aware of the possible catastrophic nature of these shifts but others in their conservative denial, continue to believe the changes we are experiencing are mere 'rumblings', rumblings indeed! If we take a broader holistic view the short term future is as clear as it could be.

Japan is essentially doomed as it sits on the juncture of three tectonic moving plates, the West coast of America along the San Andreas fault is doomed to plunge into the sea almost instantly, the South American region, which is a hot-spot for tectonic activity will be entirely transformed as will most of the rest of the planet as the ring of fire lives up to its name - the cost in human lives could exceed over 95% of the current global population, what remains will be subject to famine, starvation, disease and social mayhem, which according to a 'fanciful' psychic, could have been avoided if our consciousness was more attuned to the universal harmony in which we live.

But I've saved the best for last, and what do you suppose superpowers will do to assist in a global crisis of huge proportions, engaging in a nuclear war with each other for purely selfish non-cooperative reasons - whatever remains free of radiation and of the human race I'm sure will be a 'genuine paradise' in comparison to what we have lost, all due to our passive inability to take responsibility for our personal and collective actions.

Meanwhile, it's time for the so-called 'news' to see if a cult personality has flashed a tit. Or perhaps it's time to take another 'selfie' - for Christ's fuckin' sake! No apologies as I was trained to assess current and future realities.

However, even at this very late stage we are able to at least prepare for the drastic effects of earth changes by socially co-operating for a harmonious mutually beneficial future, but of course most readers would have by now judged me to have lost my marbles, entirely your prerogative, so quick, get back to your intravenous mass media drip feed it will certainly reassure you that if we follow our present perverse and sick course we will 'win!'