

Malcolm Turnbull, “member for Goldman Sachs ...”

by ned Tuesday, Sep 15 2015, 11:09am

international / prose / post

is how Kevin Rudd once referred to Turnbull in parliament who was also a former private banker and personal lawyer to plutocrat Kerry Packer, so it really isn't too difficult to predict the type of elite serving, conservative government to come, well at least not for honest, fair dinkum, alternative media journos. But alas, the mass media fraternity, including the ABC, is already running with the spin, which reduces to how wonderful Turnbull will be for the 'economy' and how popular he is with Labor voters, well yea, for those that are unable to review history and assess formative patterns of behaviour.

Arrogant, conceited, sleazy, elitist prick

However, the CRUCIAL question remains unanswered simply because it hasn't been asked, and that is, will Turnbull alleviate the needless burdens placed on average and vulnerable Australians by Abbott in order to fill the revenue void created by tax-avoiding large corporations and banks, which Turnbull has diligently and faithfully served throughout his entire career in private life and upon which he now depends for his political survival? In other words, Turnbull is CLEARLY NOT a man of the people/majority, he is an undisguised minority/elite serving puppet, lackey and sleazy lawyer that mass media journos are giving a free ride. Try 'connecting all the dots' as any fifth rate analyst would do and try to look behind the very thin spin now pervading the nose-ringed mass media fraternity - shame on you all for failing the people and nation.

I would also refer to folkloric WISDOM encoded in the NEW Testament and that is you cannot serve two masters, especially when those interests are diametrically opposed. Wealthy elites are self-serving, avaricious, callous exploiters/pigs that exhibit all the negative qualities of human nature, while the Australian people exhibit the better human qualities and values of mateship, mutual support and the progressive characteristics of humanity as a whole, the great social and cultural reformers of history were acutely aware of these realities and railed against elites and their sick values to the end; to a person, the greatest social reformers of history supported the masses and the broader good. Indeed, it is unquestionably the Australian masses that have made this country unique and the envy of the world.

Anyone foolish enough to take the Australian people/culture for granted or worse attack it as Abbott did to compensate for the faults/follies of self-serving, heartless elite pigs by inflicting oppressive draconian laws and needless financial burdens on the people is begging for trouble, as Abbott and his divisive, treacherous, buffoon inner core discovered to their great cost. And if you Mr Turnbull (and Mr Shorten) arrogantly imagine you are able to fool the people while serving elite interests be assured you will be relentlessly attacked and exposed for the frauds, liars and con men that you are.

This site was created by the people for the people and owes its ongoing success and survival to the people that ensure the message is manually disseminated throughout the community, though elite technocrats have attempted in vain to suppress it for years; be advised and consider how Abbott's insular miscalculation ("digital graffiti") contributed to his RAPID downfall. His final attack on the "anonymity" of the alternative media was obviously directed at contributors that value freedom of speech to the utmost and clearly do not wish to be harassed by black uniformed gestapo. Your malicious, sore loser remark Mr Abbott, only reinforces the pervasive power of the social and alternative media and you Mr Turnbull would do well to learn, though of course you arrogantly imagine you are able to use these resources to your advantage, well, quite simply, the alternative ANONYMOUS media is beyond your reach and control.

You are a known quantity Mr Turnbull, as Abbott was well before he lied his way into office. Your first announcements and comments as PM reveal that you support unrepresentative business elites rather than the greater good and welfare of the Australian community and nation. So, Australia, quite plainly, expect the expected from Turnbull! However, I sincerely hope that I'm proven wrong and that the new PM exhibits a modicum of compassion and offers support for the very long suffering Australian public that have hardly benefited from all the $TRILLIONS taken offshore by rapacious multi-nationals over the decades.

Please, Malcolm, prove me wrong, and for God's sake at least try and assist the Australian people and COMMUNITY as a WHOLE, it's the people that NOW desperately require a fair go, the wealthy have had it too easy for too long at great expense to this ravaged but wonderful nation - help restore it, you now have the opportunity.

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1863.html>