international / poetry / post

with the focus of a serpent ready to strike and all the strength i could muster i struck and severed the tether that had anchored me to the world

cast adrift,
free in the great cosmic expanse i wondered why it took me half a life-time to realise i was bound by the absurdities of culture and convention
