

Russia destroys 500 ISIL oil tankers and oil Infrastructure -- military video by Nick Pearson via stan - 9news Thursday, Nov 19 2015, 3:30am international / prose / post

A few days after Putin challenged Obama at the G20 regarding unhampered, by the West, kilometres long ISIL oil tanker convoys bound for NATO Turkey, Russia's air force struck decisively, accurately and humanely by first dropping leaflets warning civilian drivers to flee.

Oh dear, America's proxy army of fighting goons and mass murderers is being decimated and starved of supply, what now Mr Zbigniew Brzezinski, you war criminal bastard? The cat is out of the bag at last, thanks to Putin's cunning and tactical genius. Obama's face is hardly distinguishable under all that egg -- Putin forced him to attack oil convoys which he was previously loath to do. It's clear, the lot of you should be rounded up and placed on trial for overtly supporting terrorism, mass murder by proxy and creating havoc and needless bloodshed throughout the Middle East, North Africa and the world.

Russia has released video showing its warplanes destroying a convoy of 500 ISIL petrol tankers smuggling oil from Syria to Iraq.

The black and white footage shows the enormous procession of trucks being destroyed by bombs dropped by Russian planes.

Illegally sold oil is a major source of income for Islamic State, and in recent weeks both Russia and the US have been targeting their so-called "pipeline on wheels".

"In just the first few days, our aviation has destroyed 500 fuel tanker trucks, which greatly reduced illegal oil export capabilities of the militants and, accordingly, their income from oil smuggling," Colonel-General Andrey Kartapolov told RT.

Russia is now developing proposals for joint military action with the French navy against IS in Syria.

The US has also announced its coalition has destroyed 116 oil tankers in Abu Kamal in Syria's east.

To minimise the risk to the civilian drivers of the ISIL oil tankers, leaflets were dropped before the bombings to give them a chance to abandon their vehicles.

"Warning: airstrikes are coming. Get away from your oil trucks immediately," the leaflets read.

The Pentagon also reported that Syrian rebels have reclaimed al-Hawl on November 14 after ISIL withdrew from the city.

© ninemsn 2015

<http://www.9news.com.au/world/2015/11/19/13/52/russia-destroys-500-isil-petrol-tankers-in-military-video>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-1988.html>