Saudi Arabia has just crossed over from an inverted Orwellian presentation of reality to the theatre of the Absurd, however, few if any western media (propaganda) outlets are willing to state things as they are so a little background information is required.

Saudi crown prince Salman -- take a good look at this prick, Saladin he ain't!

In the very recent past it was Saudi prince Bandar who threatened Putin to his face, stating plainly that "we control the terrorists" and are able to turn them on and off like flicking a switch.

"...Saudi prince bandar once threatened Putin to his face, "I can give you a guarantee to protect the Winter Olympics next year. The Chechen groups that threaten the security of the games are controlled by us," by admitting in a (leaked) private conversation with the Russian leader that the Saudis control Sunni terrorist groups in the Middle East and Chechnya, indeed, Chechen fighters comprise a large percentage of the terrorist groups fighting for their masters in Syria. Prince Bandar went on to say, "... that Chechens operating in Syria were a pressure tool that could be switched on and off. "These groups do not scare us. We use them in the face of the Syrian regime but they will have no role in Syria's political future." Now, it could be claimed that Bandar is full of shit, however, evidence of Saudi involvement in supporting and arming Sunni terrorist groups worldwide is overwhelming.

Well, that ludicrous and very revealing threat was made during Russia's hosting of the winter Olympics. US vassal Saudi Arabia was attempting to bribe/force Putin to comply with Washington's demands to withdraw support for al-Assad in Syria -- it's a wonder Putin didn't have him shot on the spot, but of course Putin is a well-known coward and allowed the Saudi prince to return to Riyadh unscathed; however, since that incident, directed by Washington, errand boy Prince Bandar and his greasy inbred Royal family of sodomites and misogynists, have recently been exposed by numerous analysts, commentators and experts as the world's leading sponsor of Sunni terrorism of the Wahhabi kind, which fundamentalist moronic ideology is also followed by ISIL and numerous other murdering terrorist criminal groups. So what are we to make of Al Capone pledging to fight the Mafia - LOL? I mean really, how desperate could Washington and Israel get? Answer: desperate enough to start WWII.

The entire absurd but extremely dangerous plot is designed to intimidate Putin once again with the threat of an Arab coalition ready to support their millennialist terrorist fighting morons on the ground in Syria and Iraq.

Now, I would highlight the fighting capability of these Arab states with historical fact. The Arab-Israeli six day war in the 60's ended with a Jewish victory, notwithstanding the fact that Arab forces outnumbered and out-equipped the Israeli military at the time; indeed, the entire WORLD was telling jokes about the 'brave' Arab nations engaged in this REVEALING war against the Jews, which had stolen Muslim sovereign land in Palestine and declared a Jewish State on that stolen land. Here's one such international joke about the Arab effort: 'How many gears does an Arab tank have, one forward and six reverse?' There were dozens more denigrating jokes in a similar vein, so we are easily able to imagine the mirth emanating from Moscow and St Petersburg as I write. However, what is MOST revealing is America's desperation to stop Russia exposing MORE TRUTHS and evidence supported facts of US, Israeli, Turkish and GCC complicity in arming, financing and supporting al-Qaeda affiliated groups and ISIL on the ground in Syria and Iraq. So now it's the turn of greasy Saudi camel and goat fuckers to have a go - well, do your best if you are able to tear yourselves away from your favourite she-goats and camels.

Report from the Oz ABC follows, and what a pathetic, superficial piece of DISTORTED reporting it is:

Saudi Arabia announces formation of 34-state Islamic military coalition to fight against terrorism by wire report [do some real reporting for a change, ABC wankers]

Saudi Arabia has announced the formation of a 34-state Islamic military coalition to combat terrorism, according to a joint statement published on state news agency SPA.

"The countries here mentioned have decided on the formation of a military alliance led by Saudi Arabia to fight terrorism, with a joint operations centre based in Riyadh to coordinate and support military operations," the statement said.

A long list of Arab countries such as Egypt, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, together with Islamic countries Turkey, Malaysia, Pakistan and Gulf Arab and African states were mentioned.

The announcement cited "a duty to protect the Islamic nation from the evils of all terrorist groups and organizations whatever their sect and name, which wreak death and corruption on Earth and aim to terrorise the innocent."

Shiite Muslim Iran, Sunni Saudi Arabia's arch rival for influence in the Arab world, was absent from the states named as participants, as proxy conflicts between the two regional powers rage from Syria to Yemen.

The United States has been increasingly outspoken about its view that Gulf Arab states should do more to aid the military campaign against the Islamic State (IS) militant group based in Iraq and Syria.

Coalition to fight all terrorists, Yemen ceasefire takes effect

In a rare press conference, 30-year-old Defence Minister Prince Mohammed bin Salman told reporters on Tuesday that the campaign would "coordinate" efforts to fight terrorism in Iraq, Syria, Libya, Egypt and Afghanistan, but offered few concrete indications of how military efforts might proceed.

"There will be international coordination with major powers and international organizations ... in terms of operations in Syria and Iraq," Mr Salman said.

"We can't undertake these operations without coordinating with legitimacy in this place and the international community."

When asked if the new alliance would focus just on IS, Mr Salman said it would confront not only that group but "any terrorist organisation that appears in front of us".

Saudi Arabia and its Gulf Arab neighbours have been locked in nine months of warfare with Iran-allied rebels in neighbouring Yemen, launching hundreds of air strikes there.

Especially after a rash of attacks on Western targets claimed by IS in recent months, the United States has increasingly said it thinks that firepower would better be used against IS.

Germany's Defence Minister Ursula von der Leyen said she welcomed Saudi Arabia's announcement, adding that the alliance would be of help if it joined other countries currently fighting IS.

"I think it's right that the opposition is forming a group but it needs to be — and this is important — part of the Vienna process that includes all countries fighting against IS like the US, Europe, Russia, Turkey, Saudi Arabia but also Iran and China," she said.

As a ceasefire took hold in Yemen alongside United Nations-backed peace talks on Tuesday, Riyadh's announcement may signal a desire to shift its attention back toward the conflicts north of its borders.

IS has pledged to overthrow the monarchies of the Gulf and have mounted a series of attacks on Shiite Muslim mosques and security forces in Kuwait and Saudi Arabia.
