

Lake

by ryall Saturday, Jan 16 2016, 7:34am

international / poetry / post frost freezes the surface of the lake green banks

now covered in snow
allow no colour
but pure white
and the translucency of ice

yet beneath the ice
liquid warmer water
resists solidification
and nurtures all manner of life
waiting patiently
for colour
to overcome the sterile whiteness