

Global Unemployment to Reach 200 Million by 2017

by jaxie Thursday, Jan 21 2016, 1:05am

international / prose / post

The International Labour Organisation has predicted the global unemployment rate will exceed 200 million by 2017, and that is a conservative figure according to the ILO.

The increase is attributed to struggling emerging economies particularly Brazil and faltering China, and declining prices for resources (which should actually bolster economies), however, these are mere excuses and not the reason for the decline in available work as there is plenty of potential jobs in developed economies which could flow into emerging economies, particularly in the services and health sectors to name only two.

There are in fact no mysteries to the rising unemployment rate, as there is in reality an abundant need in developed nations for infrastructure, environmental and high tech development and maintenance projects. So what gives with this gloomy forecast?

It seems increasing unemployment is either the result of deliberate economic/social engineering, as massive unemployment is used to leverage existing wages, of course forcing them into negative trends or the result of incompetent governments that refuse to modernise their infrastructures, invest in new technologies or accommodate necessary transport and civil engineering projects and maintenance.

The USA is purported to be the world's most developed economy/nation YET American infrastructure is in desperate need of maintenance and modernising. The rail system is behind many emerging economies, its existing roads, bridges and other infrastructure are falling apart yet there is no shortage of money or funds for war; money is controlled by less than 1% of the population and they only see fit to invest in what they need, the military, digital technologies (surveillance) designed to serve them and other self-serving specialised projects, as who needs roads, trains and bridges when you own private jets, yachts/cruisers and helicopters?

Funds are spent on needless wars and the 'security state,' not services for the people, and the rest trillions of dollars, are either ferreted away by the mega-wealthy in tax havens or in secret vaults (Rothschilds) brimming with gold and other precious metals, diamonds etc or used to make evermore money at the people's expense.

It has been recently published in the mass media that 62 people have more wealth than the entire global population; the money they have appropriated has largely been obtained via illegal means, wars based on lies or outright flagrant violations of international law, fixing markets, the subprime fiasco which brought the global economy to its knees and kept it there, but made $zillions for the crooks that engineered it, I refer to the mega-banks and their corporate mechanisms of course. These entities have NEVER in world history seen it so good, so WHY are the people suffering from ever declining living standards, reduced wages and conditions and explosive unemployment? SIMPLE, because the people failed to stop the rogues and thieves from engineering the horrors the world no faces and hijacking governments which now serve the mega-wealthy elite while lying profusely to the people.

Wars waged for the profit of the few are not accidental, especially those based on PROVEN pretexts and lies; governments that were once democratic which now serve elite minority interests didn't just happen overnight.

Corporate/banker interests lobbied with loads of money, which they print on demand or steal from markets which they control and bought corrupt politicians which passed laws and removed protections/regulations and allowed these rogues to steal evermore wealth which the useless people rightfully own. However, if the people allow a robber, murderer and thief to enter their homes rape, kill and steal without so much as a, 'don't change the channel I'm ogling Kardashian's tits,' or 'I'm so paralysed with fear over the manufactured terrorist threat I can't do anything that opposes the (corrupt) government,' then what did YOU expect?

Furthermore, things are about to get much worse, that is why the elite have militarised the police and THEIR governments have passed evermore socially oppressive laws, using the orchestrated terror threat as justification.

But YOU did nothing to preserve what your fathers fought and died for, so choke on the shit you are about to eat as it's abundantly clear than none of you have the courage or nous to protect your own lives, loved ones and liberties - the bottom line is YOU asked for it now you're all about to get it, 'enjoy!'

<http://tinyurl.com/hfgv4v3>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2080.html>