

Western Governments: Banker/Corporate Servants

by justin Friday, Mar 4 2016, 8:24pm

international / prose / post

Well, it seems the people have woken, at least to some realities, specifically that their so-called representatives lie through their teeth in order to gain office then immediately renege on promises and serve the unrepresentative, minority corporate and financial sectors, which fact annihilates any notion of democracy.

This situation did not occur overnight, corporates have slowly but effectively been subverting the democratic process for decades. Politicians today are aware they have no hope of achieving their narcissistic dreams to become national leaders without the support of corporates, especially media plutocrats. And so we have bred a gaggle of lying, duplicitous flawed, evil, INCOMPETENT personalities to lead us, supremely evident today in western nations especially the USA, the most perverse, undemocratic, corporate controlled nation on earth, it's elections have become a farcical, mindless, emotive convention of fools and puppets ALL lying to the people to gain office, plain to see.

Elections today are nothing more than slogan contests, lies and trickery, characterised by an absence of clear coherent policies that once defined the democratic process. Indeed, a former Australian PM, Kevin Rudd, once stated to a political colleague, "once we gain office we won't have to do anything," Rudd, like so many others was a Murdoch appointee. A most revealing recorded comment as it is the tragic truth; politicians are servants of the banker/corporate elites that dictate policy and make all the important decisions and to hell with the democratic MAJORITY. So wonder no more about the real State of affairs.

Of course the masses are able to restore real democracy, however, they are faced with only owned corporate/media supported politicians which have already sold out and so the business elite wins regardless of which major party is blindly elected by a duped managed public.

The western world today is devoid of real social leaders/reformers, the last true representative of the people in Australia was deposed by the CIA in the 70's and so we should all be aware of pervasive elite influence and the state apparatuses they own and utilise to realise their self-interested agendas, which reduce to evermore profit/gain for them and less for the masses, as is plain to see.

If social awareness is lacking, which surely is the case in the USA, then expect more of the same injustices, only worse -- the social trajectory since the corporates began subverting democracy is clearly headed toward utter ruin and chaos, however, the corporate mass media would continue in its role to keep the masses uninformed and distracted from the dire realities, on many fronts -- especially climate change and pollution -- that face us all.

Vote representative INDEPENDENT at all times in all elections local, state and federal -- withdraw all support from the major parties, they are two sides of the one owned coin, plain to see, look for the candidates that only represent the people -- there are many, however, they receive minimal media exposure for obvious reasons -- never fall for the two party opposition charade -- dump both if you would restore your lost liberties, rights and restore justice. Real DEMOCRACY works but it's a system which demands CONSTANT participation from the public. If any leader betrays the people, commonplace today, they must and should immediately be placed on trial for gaining office via criminal and FRAUDULENT means, simple as that, of course, forced by POPULAR D-E-M-A-N-D! That is real democracy in action, democracy is NOT a passive spectator sport. Democracy is a dynamic political process one not exercised on one day every few years but exercised every day of our lives. We need not be ruled by scoundrels, we simply engage the process and participate DAILY and hold all our elected leaders to account the instant they fail us.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2150.html>