

‘Democracy’ - the great Con

by cyd Thursday, Apr 28 2016, 5:59pm

international / prose / post

First, let's define real democracy, MAJORITY RULE, in a nutshell, and so what does that mean/imply?

Real democracy does not mean that you, the majority, are allowed to vote for a pack of liars every few years and then get screwed for years after an election is over, it means that you MUST PARTICIPATE to protect your, the majority interests at ALL times. It means that you have the right to hold any representative to account in a court of law if they betray the position they have been GRANTED by the majority.

Consider Obama who lied through his teeth to gain office then reneged on all his promises – a criminal model that has been adopted throughout the western world, particularly in Australia where a conservative leader brazenly lied to the people to gain office then feebly attempted to make excuses when he immediately back-flipped on all his guarantees and promises – which in effect cured the population from its torpor and destroyed trust in the political system forever -- we can't thank imbecile Tony Abbott enough for his treachery and transparent dishonesty as now the Australian public is immune to the LIES, tricks and deceit of professional politicians, which ALWAYS serve minority, vested interests.

But that is not the end of the story it's only the beginning, what has been missing in the democratic PROCESS is the active persistent presence of mass participation, which would have resulted in charges being laid for fraud and false pretences against the most appalling liar to ever STEAL the office of PM in Australia. That gesture alone would have cured our now thoroughly corrupted political system and any future contender would have been made aware that there are CONSEQUENCES if they foolishly and intentionally attempt to mislead the MAJORITY.

Integrity in the political system would have been restored by the active participation of the MAJORITY and real democracy would have had a chance to blossom once more, yes, real democracy has been dormant now for decades, ever since a minority group/cabal of mega-wealthy and powerful criminals succeeded in hijacking democracy throughout the western world.

Take Rupert Murdoch for example, an active member of the CFR; he breezes into Australia and decides who HE will install in the highest office in the land. Murdoch, a demented plutocrat, does this openly, which highlights the fact that he and his fellow criminal elite imagine they have the public conned, however, Abbott unintentionally cured the population and now Australia faces another election to determine which party will serve minority interests more effectively than the other, so the final decision rests with the banker/corporate, big business elite, a tiny self-interested minority of white collar criminals which then dictate policy to their owned puppet politicians, that is if the public does not actively participate to eradicate this corrupt cycle. Well, hopefully it will act to end this OPENLY corrupt cycle at the next federal election, to be held in July, and REAL representatives are installed into office. But again, it doesn't end there, it begins, and if any representative attempts to sell-out the public, then participatory democracy would cure the situation immediately by popular DEMAND in the form of holding the rascal to account; a mandate from the people only lasts as long as the people's interests are represented. The absurd notion that politicians have a mandate and are therefore able to abuse it by doing whatever they wish is DEAD and buried and I dare any contender to try to deceive the public again. Please try, if you wish to test the hard-knocked Australian public, and do not imagine for a minute that you will escape the consequences as Abbott APPEARS to have done, I would remind every Australian that Abbott continues to be liable to prosecution for his crimes against the people and nation.

Let's hope the world catches on when the Australian public teaches the two major corrupt parties and their elite masters who it is that actually rules this nation. Vote for independents that serve the public interest only, not for former Goldman Sachs banker, Turnbull or a corrupt former union boss, neither contender is trustworthy as their lives and track record clearly indicate. Both contenders are already OWNED.

The failure of the public to haul lying, criminal bastards to the courts on obvious charges allows the great democracy con to succeed, politicians are aware that the people have been trained to accept dishonesty and criminal treasonous rule after an election, as though DEMOCRACY stops there, until the term is over and the public are 'allowed' to participate again and suffer the same results as before; this trend is now universal in all former democracies. However, by definition democracy is a DYNAMIC, ACTIVE political system, the MAJORITY ALWAYS retain THEIR PREROGATIVES as various constitutions outline - the problems are not with Constitutions and democracy. It is with the way they are ignored!

What I am saying in simple terms is that REAL DEMOCRACY is not a passive, spectator sport, it relies on active participation from its ruling base - the majority -- to maintain its INTEGRITY, and clearly LIARS, deceivers, corrupt sell-outs and those that do not represent MAJORITY interests have no place in political office or any other important social institution. It really is that simple. Never allow anyone to con you again and soon REAL democracy would have been restored and if demented plutocrats like Murdoch and the CEOs of various powerful entities attempt to interfere in the political process, which they now do openly, then jail them under existing LAWS for subverting the democratic political process.

So, is real democracy dead, no, not by a long shot, people are furious over the brazen deceptions and will act in their own best interests, which amounts to withdrawing all support from major, corrupt political parties and installing REAL independent representatives into office. Now choke on it Malcolm 'G Sachs' Turnbull and Bill 'ACTU' Shorten, you are both corrupt and as transparent as GLASS!