

What is the Oz Election Really About?

by stan Saturday, May 14 2016, 1:51am

international / prose / post

This question is the most critical to be asked today as the two major parties are at it again, claim and counter claim, negative heaped on negative -- and in the end regardless of which lying major party gains office -- YOU/we, the people are WORSE off -- historical FACT, we lose every time. Why?

The answer rests on TRUST and watch the parties use that word, however, it is painfully evident that neither major party can be trusted, we've seen and heard it all before, and you'd think the fools would learn, but they clearly haven't, so again the Oz public is being subjected to the most boring, transparent, NEGATIVE election campaign in Oz history. Now to the core issue trust; it becomes obvious that the only person on this planet you can really trust is yourself, fact! So simply ask, has Shorten, Turnbull or any other contender earned your trust, not likely as they are all tarred with the same brush.

We have in Turnbull a lying, slick lawyer/banker and member of the millionaire elite, recently named in the Panama Papers for good reason -- both he and a former Labor Premier (Wran) were directors of a company linked to their merchant banking interests, so we must ask why these two odd bedfellows needed to create a shelf company in a tax haven, the answer is clear, TAX AVOIDANCE, nothing separates the two major parties in reality, as they are both beholden to corporatist and banker interests and emulate their criminally reprehensible elite practices, which always exploit YOU. Elite interests are poison for any freedom-loving nation, make no mistake just look at the contrived and staged for-profit wars that rage in the world today. Indeed, a little thought and reflection makes voting a very simple affair.

Without tiring you with endless discourse I would now offer the most sensible and reasonable solution today; ask yourself after Turnbull's grossly UNDEMOCRATIC, BIASED budget, which brazenly ignored the democratic MAJORITY and gave tax breaks and relief to the elites whether HE represents you? The answer is also obvious, unless you are a member of the tiny minority elite, who Turnbull serves -- not bloody likely! It is that simple, if a so-called representative wants your vote he/she must represent your best interests not lie to you and then represent other nefarious interests to which he/she is secretly beholden, that group includes you and your ilk, Mr Murdoch -- your media rags are arsewipe in Oz today, so do your best to distort and install one of your puppets from either major (owned) party in power, your media outlets are gross and they never serve the public interest. You continue to imagine average Aussies are chumps, you senile, antiquated plutocrat, your time is long gone.

Are we so easily led against our best interests, I think not? Apply the same standard to other contenders, trusting yourself and nothing else, simply ask who represents YOU and your best interests -- by doing this the field narrows considerably and completely dismisses the major sellout parties. Simply vote for the contender that represents YOU and you would then have participated in a genuine democratic process, the two party charade is over, well passed its use-by date.

Notice that I have not favoured or attempted to direct your vote to any particular candidate, notwithstanding making obvious the appalling historical track record of the deceitful major parties.

Make your vote count for YOU, do NOT WASTE it on the hollow claims/babble and lies of major party politicians, vote for someone that most represents your wishes, interests and is willing to FIGHT for you and has a track record to prove it. Allow the two major parties to dig their own graves. Neither major party has a shred of integrity and INTEGRITY is what this critical election, which will determine the survival of Australian culture, is all about.

A number of independent candidates do possess INTEGRITY and have a track record to prove it, however, make up YOUR OWN MIND and participate in a REAL democratic election, something elites and puppet politicians dread. Do not be persuaded, cajoled or herded like sheep or cattle to your doom, TRUST YOURSELF, because if you don't there is nothing left to trust and you and Australia are worth saving.

This election is about YOU not them.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2230.html>