

What Saves us is REALITY not Belief

by jess Tuesday, Jul 26 2016, 2:35am

international / prose / post

Not one belief system or ideology has saved humanity to date, in fact they have ruined most societies especially if those belief systems were not attuned to the greater harmony of nature or existence as it is. All ideologies are the productions of self-interested men seeking power, whether religious, political or otherwise -- be aware.

So if we analyze the difference of taking responsibility for our own lives or surrendering our self-determination to some demagogue or fictitious man-made religion/God -- man has created over 10,000 Gods since recorded history -- we easily appreciate the world as it is and our situation in it, which is always at extreme variance with how it is presented to us by vested interests.

Surely it becomes obvious that if we take responsibility for our own lives as sovereign entities then the forces that are currently enslaving us and driving us to ruin, destruction and misery, would have little, if any, sway over us, notwithstanding the FACT that our leaders have proven themselves to be treacherous liars, thieves and scoundrels. So why continue to play their game and vote/support them? We MUST first take control of OUR lives before we take back and restore our nations.

Everyone is a CREATED being therefore no-one is better or worse than anyone else, though certain types imagine they are; however, we as the overwhelming MAJORITY are easily able to deal with a tiny minority of infantile, narcissistic, dishonest, destructive, criminal scum.

In this very direct way -- non-acquiescence or non-subscription -- we would be able to SEE the dire reality in which we live today and ALSO be very quick to pursue solutions, not media LIES and other distractions on TV. It's OUR/humanity's world not the plaything of a criminally sick minority of profit-only-driven bankers and corporate directors, which minority I would add, are behind all the climate problems (pollution), terrorism and wars we are experiencing today -- they also own all our politicians/governments, or haven't you noticed?