

Evidence and Proof are Required to maintain 'credibility,' Mr Obama!

As most of the free world is aware, the USA is the world leader in unsubstantiated claims and false accusations, the reason is, it hardly ever supplies real evidence or proof of the claims it makes -- remember the WMD fiasco? No real evidence existed so various US agencies fabricated the 'evidence' and 'anthrax' (baby powder) that Colin Powell waved in the house, which all turned out to be FAKE, based on a raft of false accusations AND orchestrated LIES. Now consider the current situation of the president of the United States making an "official" unsubstantiated accusation against another superpower.

If the watermelon fits, wear it, Mr Obama.

According to the Washington Post, Obama has OFFICIALLY accused Russia of a hacking (cyber-warfare) campaign with the express intention of interfering with the presidential election, and I quote, "US government officially accuses Russia of hacking campaign to interfere with elections." Not a 'bad' effort considering no evidence whatsoever has been forthcoming to substantiate such an outrageous and dangerous claim/allegation.

Rumours and allegations do have their place especially in society and Hollywood gossip columns published in the lowest of all publications. However, this is the President talking unsubstantiated trash, and lowering himself to the level of the above-referred-to rags -- 'integrity and credibility,' indeed! And people think that the Trump-Clinton presidential race has hit the bottom of the political and moral barrel! Well, now the White House does one worse. How low can the USA go in a bottomless pit of shit, the free world would ask? No-one knows, as the USA has astonished the WORLD with the most tragic and appalling LIES in recent history, which have cost millions of innocent lives, international chaos and the utter ruin of many once stable, prosperous nations.

So, are we surprised by America's LACK of integrity? Not at all, but we are mildly surprised that the president himself has stooped so low. However, we should not forget that Obama like all presidents before him -- with the exception of JFK -- DOES WHAT HE IS TOLD. Which puts an interesting perspective on the fake presidential race and DEMOCRACY in America.

So, Mr Obama, as they say, PUT UP OR SHUT UP, you pathetic, servile, character-devoid clown.

We should add that these absurd allegations wouldn't be so bad if such baseless accusations and hearsay were related to tabloids and Hollywood gossip columns, but it becomes a very dangerous matter for national leaders to make false accusations against another superpower, Putin and Xi are not Saddam, Gaddafi or Al-Assad.
