

Reaction to U.S. Election

by Zee Saturday, Nov 5 2016, 11:04pm

international / prose / post

Not only the USA but the entire WORLD is being treated to the most farcical, TRANSPARENT, U.S. presidential election in America's history. We have a CLEARLY (staged) 'race' between a Washington, corporate/elite-serving criminal INSIDER and a narcissistic, demagogue that has been buoyed by the mass media (since day one) to run and lose against Hillary, formerly the chosen one.

Never in U.S. history has any candidate been given so much FREE media time by the corporate mass media than Donald Trump, why, and it's not because he's a known sensationalist spouting all sorts of absurdities to gain attention? The western media is adept at the art of ignore/omission and distraction, so why the abnormal Trump attention when America's civilian killing record leads the world and various U.S. sponsored slaughters continue around the globe as I write. Well for mine, Trump was chosen to run and lose, as the sexually compromising material was always held in reserve and released with perfect timing to offer citizens little choice but to vote for Hillary, the reviled, puppet insider.

However, the crimes of the Clintons have finally caught up to them, surely they would, they are too gross, compromising and widely known to brush under the carpet and any attempt to do so would severely compromise those involved, hence the outrageous 'interference' by FBI director Comey, which in my view is an arse-covering exercise.

So the game has been tilted and is now out of (elite) control, or at least presents as an extremely difficult proposition to slide the chosen one, Hillary, into office without a HUGE public reaction. Hillary is easily the most reviled candidate not only in U.S. history but also viewed as such around the WORLD, and though Trump is a political novice he is wily and knows how to appeal to the masses and also toy with the media -- so he blurts, "RIGGED!" Not 'bad' at all.

Well, most Americans have always suspected that the country was lost to elite interests but NOW they know, though aware analysts and commentators have always known that 'democratic' elections in ALL western nations are a farce, as usually both candidates are already owned by elite interests and pledge their service well before running for office -- but not so Trump, which was known, though he seemed to be the perfect 'useful idiot' engineered to lose. So what went wrong with the elite plan to set up a 'credible' fall-guy? The answer in a word is REALITY, which for once took prominence over the media-created fantasy world most Americans live in. The evidence against Clinton is overwhelming and so too the obvious attempts by high officials, now running for cover, to smother it.

The world is watching the well-oiled American dream machine FAILING to hide the machinations and loss of control by elite interests, in utter disbelief; but the world is also aware that elite interests are unable to release their grip on the world's most powerful nation. So it would seem it now amounts to how OBVIOUS, the usually invisible elite criminal hand becomes -- it's analogous to bad stage lighting exposing a magician and ruining the trick so ALL can see!

You SEE, it's not only America that is at stake BUT the entire western WORLD.

My advice to the now failing elite is, give it your best shot as your dick is already hanging out of your pants -- you're damned if you do and damned if you don't, as the American people would now react explosively to the desperate result, whatever it may be, but so too the western world as there is really much more at stake than the U.S. presidency; indeed, the entire media/military/economic control mechanism of the western world is already groaning under the strain and shearing its threads. Perhaps your trained militarised police will be deployed, which would allow the world to see that elite interests have always been anti-democratic, self-serving exploiters of the PEOPLE. And thanks for doing all the heavy lifting, it was easy.

Perhaps I should now reveal the existence of another invisible elite that cannot be bought, intimidated or discovered, dedicated to the demise of the wealthy, criminal, global elite, but no-one would believe me if I did -- LOL -- and that's how it should BE!

Whatever the desperate outcome of this election one thing is sure, the BIGGEST LOSER will be the United States of America.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2398.html>