to it's source, ancient Egypt, a nation so far ahead of other nations of the time that it seemed it was led by non-terrestrials but it wasn't, it arose from the human past, civilisations wiped out by upheavals, social and tectonic

the elite of those civilisations settled in North Africa and other locations known for their pyramid structures;

almost overnight sprang Egypt complete with its advanced astronomy, mathematics, engineering ability and a socially cohesive system, but there was a flaw -- it was ruled by minority elites that kept their astounding secret knowledge to themselves ruling dynastic Pharaohs emerged and were elevated to divine status by the priests, the keepers of the secret knowledge. the concentration of wealth/power remained in the hands of a few and the masses were effectively enslaved by LIES and false beliefs, including the belief in the infallibility of the priests and Pharaohs.

the masses became enslaved to a model that persists today, treacherous insiders maintaining elite rule and slavery for the masses thousands of years have elapsed since ancient Egypt yet that model of deceiving and enslaving the masses persists. Surely it's time for a change?

elite dynastic families today utilise the same means to enslave and deceive, tho gods have been substituted by money and economics, an insider game played today much as the ancient priests played their 'divine' personages thousands of years ago.

two main reasons stand out as the major contributing factors of Egypt's decline, internal corruption and rivalry at the highest social level and rebellion by the enslaved masses, some of which events were recorded allegorically in the Old Testament, which is itself a text replicating and promoting elite 'divine' rule.
Surely it's time that we realised that all 'gods' have been created by men?

The temples of belief and faith today are centred in Wall Street and the 'City of London', not London city. It's priests are economists, bankers/thieves and insider rogues -- they print money from thin air and then lend it out at interest to enslave nations, which are forced to repay these fabricated debts with REAL labour and naturally occurring resources required by the corporate arm of elite rule.

and as usual the masses are deprived of their rightful share, the bulk of which bounty is captured by elite interests whose avarice knows no bounds -- this game continues as few outsiders have woken to the ruse, fewer still fight these elite forces that have little regard for anything other than their own interests.

But as we know the model is flawed -- history records -- and so today the enslaved and abused are questioning the banker 'priests' and servile government 'Pharaohs,' they are realising the chains of enslavement consist only of paper (printed money) and false beliefs in its imaginary value, it is actually a WORTHLESS medium of exchange.

So the TIME has arrived AGAIN, elites are contending against an overwhelming foe -- an awakened global population. and as elites only number a few, their fate is easily determined and the masses will once again gain their FREEDOM.
