

The 'Stuck Pig' media war -- Do You Hear the Muffled Squeals?

by ned Saturday, Dec 10 2016, 1:30am

international / prose / post

True to form, the clearly attacked alternative media, by interests that wish to maintain the status quo illusion that the mainstream press is the only purveyor of truth and fact -- ridiculous, as the record shows, the alternative media has taken the attack personally, it seems that so-called Russian agent propaganda sites have missed the point, which is what, you lame, thin-skinned, self-important alt-media phoneys?

This planned and concerted attack is CLEARLY NOT a personal matter, but predictably, the alt-media have reacted as though it was/is -- they are divided between those who made and didn't make the list and those that were able to legally force mainstream interests to remove them from the list. However, the REAL attack, though its not unknown, is on FREE SPEECH and other inalienable rights of the press; as such, it should be responded to accordingly in an objective, united, legal fashion and given the publicity it deserves, as it's still a minor issue to the public at large, which much be rectified immediately, a class action or other major tactical response is required.

I have waited patiently for the appropriate response but no class action or unified approach to the problem is evident. So I would name Glenn Greenwald, alt-journalist, known internationally, as perhaps the most equipped person to represent the smeared group, as he was a LAWYER before he was a journalist. Of course Greenwald should be aware of many other constructive options, but I have not been able to locate any advice from him anywhere, are you reading this, Mr Greenwald?

Many unjustly smeared alternative news sites and journalists have very valid cases against the interests that are behind the smear campaign and the overt attacks on free speech and the Constitutional Rights of a free press though many of the attacked sites obviously lack funds and resources. So what's the matter, my pet parakeet asks? Division and alienation of course, anticipated by the nefarious, anti-American interests that initiated this attack on OUR (everyone's) rights, I would suggest.

This is CLEARLY not a personal matter, it is a SOCIAL matter and should be addressed and fought on that basis, if any chance of victory and justice is desired or sought; failure to address this problem would of course only increase the accelerated pace of the interests that only wish to SUPPRESS alternative voices. Any victory no matter how small by these nefarious interests on free speech and a free press would be disastrous.

As far as I am aware, the definitions of the press are arbitrary and vague at best in America, so all popular media sites and mediums fall under a free press definition/category, though I would stand corrected on this as I am a bloody Aussie that is not entirely familiar with all the nuances of the 'law' in America, though I am aware that you can't find wild roses growing in a sewer. Nevertheless, those involved must give it their best concerted shot.

Please feel free to respond, if you have the courage required to pursue your rights, as the forces against you anticipate that you lack the fortitude, conviction and unity to do so -- with that said it becomes plain your destiny as ALWAYS, is in YOUR hands.

Respond here anonymously or on whichever medium you choose but fuckin' address the REAL problem, and the best remedial strategy, if you hope to prevail and survive -- do it, for everyone's sake -- public support for alternative news (Truth) today is higher than it has ever been.

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2440.html>