

The Absurdity of Obama's new Legal 'Ministry of Truth'

by hatter Saturday, Dec 31 2016, 10:58pm

international / prose / post

It seems the ruling global elite have lost control of public opinion, much as they did in the 60's. The cure then was to capture the anti-establishment mass media of the time and concentrate ownership/power in the fewest possible hands, a practice that continues today.

However, due to the digital revolution and the means by which the establishment hoped to enslave the masses, social media, 'news' of varying kinds is being disseminated as I write.

So what is news, fake or otherwise, I challenge any legal professional to define it clearly as many a case in the courts will be challenged if a definition is not outlined?

Of course elites shudder at the prospect as it is their media outlets that are the most culpable for disseminating fake news, like WMD and 9/11, which remains the biggest fake news story of the 21st century.

Who was it that brought these nefarious insider black ops to the public's attention, the alternative media as it is known, especially the social networks, originally designed to trace and know all there is to know about users and their 'friends,' all designed TO SELL ADVERTISING, the main source of income for these large IT enterprises.

Well, some would say you can't have it both ways, as to gain an edge over their competition many social sites have allowed 'news' that is important to users to be automatically presented, and so we have with the assistance of the mainstream, the promulgation of fake and other 'news,' whatever news means today -- as all we see is garbage from the mass media, astutely exposed by the more professional alternative news sites, most of which can be found listed (200 'fake news' sites) promoted by the Washington Post, a lying establishment rag owned by a billionaire industry outsider!

Indeed, history dictates that it is today's mass media that is the source of most fake news, like Hillary is a sure thing for the presidency, the mainstream's bubble-bursting event, which will forever compromise mainstream outlets as credible sources -- as they ALL toed the elite's bullshit, propaganda line.

So with public confidence clearly lost how would elite interests re-capture public opinion, which is inculcated not self-determined? The short answer is they can't, surely not by the present means of an Orwellian 'Ministry of Truth,' of all things. The utter absurdity of this senseless, futile act defies description as it has no chance of succeeding.

Many independent sites have already legally circumvented this 'new' strategy of the elites, and have posted disclaimer notices on their heavily visited sites that all articles are opinions held by the contributors and that the publishing site does not necessarily subscribe to those views -- and as opinions, as Clint Eastwood once stated in a movie, are like arseholes, everybody has one. So, is the next stage of the elite's knee-jerk thoughtless plan to legislate that opinions/arseholes are illegal?

You can see where all this is leading, straight to Alice's Wonderland.

The only way to effectively stop 'news/opinions or discourse' is to ban free speech, so please give it your best shot you mindless elitist losers -- you haven't got a hope because it's plain to see, as your latest strategy would imply, you lack the means (brains) to successfully alter public OPINION any longer. Talk about sore, infantile losers, ay, Hillary!

See:

<http://m.strategic-culture.org/news/2016/11/28/major-purveyor-fake-news-cia-corporate-complex.html>

<http://www.globalresearch.ca/obama-quietly-signs-propaganda-act-to-counter-fake-news-eu-to-follow-suit/5565373>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2469.html>