

Shadow Boxing

by drew Monday, Jan 9 2017, 7:56pm international / poetry / post my favourite sport each match a world championship i favour opponents that have a huge advantage like States, America for instance; outgunned, out-manned, but never outclassed against over-equipped with uselessness -- now evident to the world -- but the world has failed to consider previous bouts we've had with America, each weakening the cumbersome, rustic, brute until of course the inevitable victory

America offers every possible vulnerability to the astute shadow boxer - guns blazing, propaganda/LIES streaming, civilian killing, you name it, every crime in the book and yet we are always victorious and will prevail in the fast approaching END are you able to fathom why we stand undefeated against the world's sole superpower?

we offer only shadows to fight -- after all the sport is shadow boxing catch us if you can, your intel agencies can't even find their dicks to take a piss or they're too busy fabricating 'evidence' where none exists

... eight, nine, ten -- you're OUT!