

Deep State's Fusillade Against Trump

by jake Thursday, Jan 12 2017, 7:21am

international / prose / post

Remember Hilter's propaganda adage, to paraphrase, 'if you're going to LIE [to the people] make sure it's a BIG LIE.' Now, this tactic comes with its own problems as most people would be aware that the lie is exactly that, a BIG LIE, but is truth crucial? Well no, as the lie is meant to implant in the public consciousness, doubt, notwithstanding that 'opposing' media outlets, which today compromise the alternative media, become fixated on the lie and give it impetus by constantly covering the story/lie; NOTE, there is no such thing as bad publicity when using this tactic.

Rather than remaining focused on critical issues the alt media entraps itself and unknowingly becomes nose-ringed with of course the promulgator of the lie holding the rein. I am always astonished at how easily the alt-media is captured by this rather simplistic tactic designed to focus the public's attention on a PARTICULAR issue to the exclusion of other more important matters -- shame on gullible alt media writers that knee-jerk far too often to the intentional designs and machinations of the evil shadow ruling elite or deep state interests.

In today's political context it's no secret that the establishment wishes to neutralise/impeach Trump any way it can -- they have never gotten over the fact they lost their puppet candidate, Hillary Clinton, even though they threw EVERYTHING they had at Trump, whose wily ability to turn the tables on this type of media tactic is now legendary. But the show isn't over by a long shot, as a matter of fact it's only just begun. Of course the most effective counter-measure against the BIG LIE is more Truths that do not involve focus on the big lie as losing focus on the big lie neutralises it, which results in the public's consciousness becoming focused on other issues more important to it which may or may not involve the target, in this case, Trump.

While the IDIOTIC and astoundingly GULLIBLE alt-media remains nose-ringed the deep state is able to incrementally introduce more material which eventually compromises the target as these incremental additions are more aligned with truth; combined, this pot-pore eventuates in the BIG LIE gaining credibility.

I would now refer to this "post-truth" claim by a few media outlets. The absurdity of this label is that the media by its very nature lies as no re-presentation captures the reality of an event, as the event is reality itself and once performed is never able to be re-captured, which is why history is often referred to as the fiction of the winner.

Now, where should attention be focused regarding Trump? Clearly, that he will lead the USA into a war with Russia, though that is not immediately apparent, Trump has no political nous or skills nor the acumen to deal with intelligent world leaders, notwithstanding that the United States automatically reaches for the gun to solve its foreign and internal problems. Furthermore, Trump is a climate change denier which threat is the most critical that faces the entire planet -- all nations in other words. There are many other indications that Trump will toe the elite's line, especially the fact that Henry Kissinger is now advising Trump -- recall that Obama is a Kissinger protege' and what did he accomplish, NOTHING but the acceleration of the criminal elite's status quo; remember, in media terms -- proven -- the public is a mindless entity awaiting guidance from the media to which it is ADDICTED, which addiction assists the tactic of the BIG LIE and associated incremental additions until the target is either neutralised or becomes subservient/compliant -- indications of the later are already apparent.

Now I would refer to common cultural responses to any information problem or situation arising therefrom; regarding information/the media, the best approach for 'consumers' (the masses) is believe nothing you hear, and only half of what you see -- this approach allows SPACE for critical thinking, which expression indeed does remedy all the propaganda/lies any entity transmits. Furthermore, it's application adds to the wealth of information and misinformation now disseminated on the lightning fast digital internet which results in all lies and 'facts' becoming scrutinised -- and scrutiny is all that is required to neutralise lies in this 'post-truth' age.

I need not elaborate as I neither write for the mainstream press or easily led alt-media, this site is my preferred vehicle for obvious reasons, it at least makes attempts to avoid partisan and BINARY reporting.

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2482.html>