

True Grit

by jake Sunday, Jan 15 2017, 8:49pm

international / prose / post

The world will very soon learn whether Trump has 'true grit' in the classical western sense.

After his inauguration Trump becomes the active commander-in-chief of the world's leading superpower with presidential powers -- invested in the office by the ruling elite -- that far exceed those of a president in peacetime. As such Trump is able to clean out the treasonous elements that have hijacked the Pentagon, the CIA, FBI and the courts, but will he exercise that power for the benefit of the people, nation and WORLD, as he said he would?

It astounds the international community that US bureaucratic (especially Clapper of the DHS and Brennan of the CIA) officials are openly warning Trump to toe the shadow government's line, which is perpetual war and world hegemony or pax Americana -- which are clearly pathological megalomaniacal ambitions/pursuits the people are opposed to. However, Trump has flagged that he will stick to his own policies, most of which oppose the elite agenda.

Now readers, apprehend REALITY, a bunch of appointee bureaucrats threatening the PRESIDENT! Clearly the question arises who do THEY serve if not the democratically elected president? Other nations would not tolerate for an instant any appointee bureaucratic attempting to usurp the power of a national leader, and if Trump has 'true grit' he will not hesitate to sack and replace, if not pursue TREASON charges against these 'officials' in the courts.

Outrageous, is too mild a word for the recent behaviour of US petty officials and government bureaucrats, which behaviour the entire WORLD is also witnessing in amazement.

Trump will soon possess the unprecedented powers of a US president today, so for mine, the elite would be forced to either load their assassination sniper rifles or face charges for treason and other crimes against the people. The USA is not quite lost, but Trump is the last hope of the people and should he kowtow to the powers he is 'dead' from the people's perspective, and literally dead from the ruling elite's perspective if he does not follow elite dictates. However, 'true grit' overcomes all fears and obstacles and prevails, especially with the powers a US president is able to wield today.

We shall soon see, though indications appear to indicate that Trump is just another lackey. So surprise us all Donald, or take your chances, cos you're damned if you do, and damned if you don't -- that is why 'true grit' is an essential characteristic required by all representative leaders today. Place your bets.

An interesting possibility may present itself. If Trump resists and does not kowtow to the elite, the nefarious elite would be forced to opt for their favoured tactic, assassination/murder; HOWEVER, if they do then the entire US and WORLD population would know who is behind the killing regardless of whichever patsy is offered to the public; the result of course is the lives of the criminal elite and their treasonous political puppets, would not be worth two cents. I can hardly wait!

