

Trump can only be stopped with a bullet

by jorge Monday, Feb 6 2017, 6:13am

international / prose / post

Much to my personal displeasure I have a duty as a real journalist to follow world events, which revolve around the new president of the USA, Donald Trump. So much for broad impartial news coverage.

Trump, Lenin and Bannon share far too many similarities

The most outstanding characteristic of Trump is his DIVISIVE policies, clearly intended to sow DISCONTENT, conflict, destabilisation and chaos, which his chief advisor and strategist, Steve Bannon, considers essential for destroying an existing State/social order, and replacing it with another model, which dream/aspiration, Trump seems to share with Bannon. Scorched earth of the old and in with the new, a radically revolutionary design, which fact is hilarious, as it has never been the conservative elite that pursue radical revolution, especially with the fervour Trump and Bannon pursue it. Translated into global politics, this tendency means war, now notice how Trump and his Washington flunkies have totally overblown the so-called Iranian threat, which nation is no threat whatsoever to the USA, however, Iran's allies, Russia and China, are real threats.

So Mr demagogue president, bring it on, the sooner the USA strikes out against paranoid Iran, the sooner the USA will be obliterated by Iran's allies, and good riddance to the world's leading civilian killing, invasive, resource thieving State, America.

Now let's address the absurd claim of mainstream journalists, which expresses itself as not really knowing what Trump is all about, are you people kidding, or what? Trump has been CONSISTENT from day one, radical, destabilising, PROVOCATIVE and dangerous. Trump wears his attitude on his sleeve, so any claim that we don't know what Trump is all about is either bereft of professional assessment, ridiculous, or is INTENDED as a distractive strategy, I favour the later. As the people/moronic masses, when led to revolution must be held in a perpetual state of high emotion, confusion and UNCERTAINTY, which paralyses any tendency for united action against those that lead.

The REAL situation is now known by many, including those groups able to change the course of world events; it would appear that only one option presents itself regarding eliminating the Trump threat to the stability of the world -- and that option is obvious. Now, that is not the end of the story; if Trump indeed continues on his reckless, ignorant course unscathed, then clearly he is the next stage of the global elite's agenda -- take your pick as both choices spell ruin for the free world.

Kissinger has filled Trump's head with notions that Putin/Russia could be persuaded, politically bribed in other words, to ally itself with the USA, a dream of the most extreme nature, Yes, it's true that Putin was once bought during the Bush era, however, he now has a Russian military Kalashnikov pointed directly at his head -- so forget buying scumbag Putin again.

Nevertheless, Trump lives on sensationalism and upsetting apple carts, so he may just launch an attack on Iran, early indicators seem to support this view. So the future of the US may reduce to a tussle between the global elite and Trump's personal pathologies, the most obvious being NPD, and sufferers of this complaint never see reason as they imagine they are God. And so the title now becomes a very real possibility.

---

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2528.html>