

Do You See What I See-ee?

by jess Thursday, Feb 16 2017, 9:13pm

international / prose / post

Yes, indeed, it's the title of a song by Hunters and Collectors, however, I would use it in another context, reality vs media induced fantasy.

But first let's try to appreciate the ability to see objectively; for instance most people are easily categorised as having the visual ability of bats, very few indeed have the visual ability of eagles and hawks and so we live in a human world populated mostly by the blind -- and we should not forget that the real visual sense is in the brain not eyes, which act only as apertures-sensors, much like a camera.

So where is YOUR brain when it comes to SEEING? A rhetorical question as the answer has been supplied above.

The visual-cognitive sense is so severely atrophied in modern western populations that leading the blind over a cliff is accomplished with ease by the mass media. Their latest diabolical achievement is to make outrageous claims without a skerrick of proof, which was once demanded by a skeptical, visually cognitive population; but not so today, most 'news' that people believe is unsubstantiated, in other words no proof offered of the claims made.

Now, not so long ago, a few decades at most, any organisation that made outrageous claims without offering PROOF, would have automatically been disregarded and mocked, as indeed, we once used to hear, "who are 'they' (elite owned media) trying to kid?"

Today however, crowd controllers or 'perception managers' as they are known, have demonstrated their ability to EASILY steer the masses by simply making outlandish claims -- the more outlandish the better, as what is desired is to press the emotive trigger of the target audience, NOT to appeal to reason, sense and logic, which three human abilities are in danger of becoming dormant today.

Now recall the hysterical claims made by 'agencies' and the deep state that Russia interfered with the presidential election, no proof offered. Julian Assange, the recipient of the compromising data publicly announced that the email account of a Democrat power broker could have been hacked by a 14yo kid, as the password for his supposed 'secure' account was, "password!" And we, the eagles and hawks, are expected to believe that a technically sophisticated super-state did the dirty work -- give me a break, you nose-ringed, morons!

Today we see ongoing attempts to remove reactive imbecile Trump from office, which is a necessity, as CLEARLY he has proven he is not up to the tasks the office of president DEMANDS -- for Christ's sake, this super-thinned-skinned clown 'President' reactively rants and raves on twitter over the most banal, trivial, critical comments, notwithstanding that twitter is 'no doubt' the most appropriate medium for the leader of any nation to vent their spleen and communicate with the masses, sick!

I could scarcely believe that western society has plummeted to such inane depths -- but reality always stares us in the face. And it's all the result of expert crowd controllers which have technologically lobotomised the masses -- no more proof required, which also allowed imbeciles like Trump to gain the presidency. However, few seem to be aware of the real game and strategy employed to defeat Trump, which actions are child's play, as this man is a severely flawed personality, to the point of psychopathology, which makes him his own worst enemy; it's all too easy to SEE, if you are able. See what? The forces at work behind the scenes and what their real agenda is -- that's what, morons; it's not about insignificant Trump, it's about the machinations of the deep state that consider America and the world their private property!

But you are not really looking, as you do not see the nefarious forces working behind the scenes, not only to topple imbecile Trump, but to lead the sleepwalking masses to nuclear war, because of course Russia/China or Iran, did it! Did what I would ask? And if YOU ask you would only be offered more compounded LIES.

Proof/evidence today is synonymous with void, and if you're not sure of the meaning of that word take a very good look at your brain. Fair dinkum, I do not know why I bother, as I know it's all to no avail, but as bears shit in the woods, writers must write; thank Christ, a mythological figure, that poetry is always there to save me. And people/slaves, continue to enjoy the media supplied dream(nightmare)world in which YOU live -- who needs chains today, 'they' have the media?

🔊 hunters_collectors_do_you_see_what_i_see_.mp3

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2539.html>