

Trump Claims Obama Ordered “Wire Tap” on Trump Towers

What next? Since the early days of declaring a Republic America has been embroiled in intrigue and subterfuge, but nothing like at present, one could easily interpret the latest insane claims and counter-claims as symptomatic of a nation unravelling.

Trump claims, without proof -- not that proof is required in America today -- that Obama while president ordered intel agencies to bug Trump Towers to collect compromising information on Trump and his associates in order to prevent the Deep State's plan/strategy to depict modern Russia as the greatest threat to the USA since the Soviets, from being neutralised. This makes stories written by religious clowns credible, Armageddon, what next indeed? Armageddon probably but in the real world. America has clearly lost it, if it was a person it would have been locked up and medicated for its own good, but alas, lunacy is becoming part of the status quo in dreamboat, media-lobotomised America.

For mine, it's not really surprising as both camps, Deep State and Bannon/Trump, are at war, plain to see. So what will come of it? No-one really knows, least of all the players that imagine they are in control. Indeed, America has all the symptoms of a failing empire, as history clearly illustrates; division and conflict at the highest level of State.

A pre-emptive all-out nuclear strike on the North American continent by sane nations, precisely timed, may be the only solution left for the free world, as American nut cases in control of nuclear weapons cannot be trusted, their psychotic judgements/actions are now on display for the entire world to see, and what an appalling, frightening picture it makes.

Follow links below for more details as I have better things to do than involve my mind with a clearly pathological 'spangled' nation:
