

Trump Spends more time watching Cable News (about himself) than Running the Country

by cyd Monday, Mar 6 2017, 9:58pm

international / prose / post

It is clear that a person suffering from NPD would be self-obsessed, however, a president of a nation in decline and turmoil can ill-afford that narcissistic luxury.

It's true that Trump is under siege from the Deep State, but would the Trump camp expect anything different? Obviously not. So what the current turmoil in Washington indicates is that Trump's camp, especially Trump himself, were ill-prepared for the KNOWN subversive forces within Washington, and for that GROSS FAILING there are no excuses.

It has now been reported that Trump spends an inordinate amount of time watching cable news reports about himself; well, no surprise for a TV performer, however, a little more time spent focused on cleaning out the cancerous Deep State is clearly what is required.

It seems the president has little idea of the power invested in his office since the neocons arranged it that way. Turn off cable news, Mr Trump, and realise you have the power to sack anyone in government or government agencies that warrants removal. Of course, easier said than done but remember -- to use a surgical analogy -- that some good tissue is often lost when a very dangerous cancer is surgically removed in order to save a life, in this case the life of America and its executive government. Act Mr Trump, do not watch the sewage that issues from the Deep State's mass media arm.

Forget the social trauma of such a drastic but clearly required action, the Deep State is banking on your reluctance to act, plain to see. However, does this gross failure of Trump's administration indicate that the Trump camp lacks the wherewithal to act decisively? Only the players in this public internal war know, nonetheless, the public and world are aware that the Trump administration seems to lack political nous and the guts to clean out its own house, which of course plays into the hands of the nefarious Deep State.

What is also clear is, if Trump FAILS to take drastic, effective action NOW, he is a goner, not least due to his personal (thin skin) flaws, political failings, cowardice and the incapacities of his administration which should have been prepared, are you reading this, Mr Steve Bannon?

Get moving NOW or die the death your incompetence and cowardice are begging for! The actions of members of the Deep State are clearly TREASONOUS, perhaps a public arrest and trial of one of the Deep State's high profile figures/culprits may wake the Deep State into reality and stem the tide of unsubstantiated claims, lies and propaganda. Remember, LIES WORK if allowed to continue unassailed, and attempting to counter lies, Mr Trump, with more unsubstantiated 'facts/fantasies' (bugging Trump Tower) is a recipe for disaster. Indeed, the faction that offers the world incontrovertible PROOF, will win the day.

Also see:

<https://consortiumnews.com/2017/03/06/official-washington-tips-into-madness/>

