

The Washington (Staged) False Flag Gas Attack on Syria

by drew Sunday, Apr 9 2017, 1:27am

international / prose / post

All the known circumstantial facts aside, not the least of which is the utter implausibility of a gas attack by a government which has all but destroyed Western proxy fighters in Syria. We, the GLOBAL POPULATION, should NOW shift focus away from mass media DISTRACTIONS/mesmerism and the fictional narrative they wish to create, as many legitimate questions need to be asked, NOW!

Indeed, focus should shift away from the distractive discourse the mass media is creating and all efforts should be made to investigate and apprehend the perpetrators of this criminal attack, as clearly no national leader would be so stupid as to compromise themselves on the doorstep of victory.

Furthermore, samples of the gas should be collected and its origin identified, as all such agents carry chemical signatures which reveal their origin. In other words, the concrete evidence exists, it should now be made available to independent specialists and the public, as only then could the guilty be brought before the courts, notwithstanding there is little doubt (previous criminal behaviour and lies) which party is responsible for the overt false flag criminal attack.

So cool off and think people, only fools believe unproven claims. Furthermore, there is no good reason why the US and Russia shouldn't investigate this matter together as they are the principal players, picture that if you could.

Until evidence is collected all baseless claims without proof amount to hot air or bullshit. That is the current REALITY.

Meanwhile the USA has much to worry about, so much so that it may RAPIDLY escalate the situation in order to avoid the ugly truth. Which means a possible nuclear confrontation between superpowers.

Now appreciate that the overwhelming majority of people on the planet DO NOT WANT WAR, so how have we, the GLOBAL POPULATION, come to this? It's time that all governments began representing the PEOPLE that elected them to office. Failing that, clearly, revolutionary intervention by the people is required to remove the rot and stabilise international relations -- yes indeed, if ever there was a necessary time for overt revolution it is NOW, as the criminals and lunatics in control of our governments would not hesitate to plunge the world into war, as is easily seen. The war process is being served to you on a daily basis, is that really what the people want? I would think not!

Now consider that no hard evidence has been provided by the US to justify their missile attack, which at present is a clear violation of international sovereign law and war crimes law, notwithstanding the USA specialises in such breaches, as history CLEARLY records.

To date NO EVIDENCE has been provided by US officials; the last public statement I heard was that 'we,' the US deep state, have "incontrovertible" proof that the Assad government is responsible for the gas attack -- WELL REVEAL IT! Now note the absurd speed with which this claim has been made in order to legitimise a grossly illegal attack on a sovereign state. And the fact that the person that announced this implausible and ludicrous claim, also stated that 'national security' prohibits him revealing it to the public, how very convenient. So, it is clear that international LEGAL pressure should be applied and independent assessments made. The truth would then be served. Though the US deep state is averse to such as they would then compromise themselves.

The clearly transparent and predictable desperation by US deep state interests losing their hold on Syria has indeed prompted the false flag gas attack which reeks of western contrivance though the perpetrators of the crime would have been one of many, allied to their paymasters, Saudi/jihadi fighting groups serving US deep state interests. Enough circumstantial evidence exists now which compromises the USA, one would think they would have digressed from their stale, old, tired, transparent tricks, which consistency reveals they are not too bright, as indeed president Trump is a prime example.

<http://www.globalresearch.ca/united-nations-confirmed-that-us-supported-rebels-were-using-chemical-weapons/5583988>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2604.html>