

Israeli Damascus Airstrike: Putin's Missile Defence of Syria Exposed as Useless

by jess Thursday, Apr 27 2017, 11:56pm

international / prose / post

The mass media is again guiding the minds of the herded masses (by omission) regarding the Israeli airstrike on Damascus. Indeed, this is the second occasion, in a matter of weeks, that the much lauded, by compliant pro-Russian journos have been forced to eat their words -- all one need do is ask them what happened to these Russian made, extolled, air defences which should have prevented Israel's recent strike -- though you won't find a word about same in the mass OR alternative media?

Okay, we know that Putin deferred ONCE AGAIN to the USA, regarding the clearly illegal strike ordered through Trump by the Deep State. However, it appears that Putin deferred YET AGAIN to criminal US/Israeli attacks on Syria. Now, most of Washington is aware that Putin is a coward at heart and always has been, recall Libya, Yugoslavia and a host of other abandoned Russian 'allies.'

Putin is corrupt as the day is long, no secret, but what's worse for Russia and the world is, he clearly lacks a spine and the resolve to stand by his nation's and allies' interests -- a huge fail for any leader of a superpower.

But let's leave the first missile strike aside for the moment because there are no excuses for the failure of Russian installed air defences in relation to the grossly illegal and brazen Israeli air strike on Damascus.

Has Putin done another deal with his western financial masters or is he, as seems to be the case, a timid, spineless coward when brazenly confronted? Either his extolled, by idiots, missile and other defence systems are not worth a pinch of shit, or Putin is feigning he really is acting in Russia's best interests -- readers would not know that ruling global financial powers have tentacles in every major nation on earth, including of course Russia AND China, isn't that correct Lord Rothschild?

It seems to me, assessing harsh REALITIES, though mystifying to most of the gullible and led press, that a game of subterfuge is at play, as every recent instance and numerous past instances where Russia has been confronted, slap-in-face style, Putin caves and runs like a mouse back into his hole. But please, if any alternative Russian-loving journo, Mr/s Escobar, Whitney, Cunningham, Roberts and others, could explain why Putin always caves/defers to criminal interests when international LAW is clearly on his side, I and many others would love to hear any rational explanation, so please go for it, otherwise lose all credibility.