

Putin's Syria Defences FAIL Yet Again

by drew Friday, May 19 2017, 11:09pm

international / prose / post

Russian 'news' agencies -- obviously no better than American -- along with western duped supporters, have touted the superiority of Russian defensive weaponry from air/sea to pin-point accuracy missile systems, YET Syrian government forces have been deliberately and ILLEGALLY attacked AGAIN by US fighter jets originating from Jordan. Russian targeting and missile systems seem not to function period, as enemy jet fighters and Tomahawk missiles face absolutely no operational challenges whatsoever -- rather odd don't you THINK?

Vladimir Putin, traitor

Now let's compound these very interesting clearly ILLEGAL US attacks/strikes on Syria, which operations appear to have the freedom of the skies in Syria though Russia and western lackey journos pretend otherwise. No evidence of mitigating defensive operations or measures have ever been recorded, which severely compromises Russia in two distinct ways. First and foremost it makes hollow the claims of Putin, secondly it severely affects Syrian forces that continue to die and lose valuable equipment, AND it compromises the integrity of mindless western journo supporters. So c'mmon, explain it, give it your best shot because I like most people believe in the reality of EVENTS not the hot air/propaganda from Putin or the USA.

How the 'geniuses' that support Russia and the Russian military fail to apprehend reality as opposed to all the bluff and hot air is quite amusing. The latest western 'news' headline of yet another US attack on Syria, this time emanating from vassal Jordan, is noted by its complete absence of any Russian opposition, which one would expect in a war, or do Russians fight their wars against military hardware with words and bluffs, as appears to be the case? It seems so, but please excuse me for leading you astray, because THE REAL REASON that no opposition is detected IS THAT PUTIN IS A KNOWN CORRUPT COWARD AND IS LOATH TO RESPOND TO US ATTACKS, which is true, as he has a LONG record of selling out his allies. In other words Putin's integrity and word are not worth a pinch of shit -- PLAIN TO SEE if you have eyes in your head. It matters not if indeed Russian military hardware is superior to America's if it remains unused or fails to operate.

Needless to say the Syrian military is livid BUT al-Bashar is at the mercy of COWARD Putin who has his own PERSONAL agenda, which seems not to include defending Syria or its people, only air and sea bases important to Russia -- if ever there was a reason to dump Bashar it is because he fails in his obligation to ensure the safety of his people/nation and is an obvious impotent puppet of Putin.

Again, I speak directly to the Russian military, surely since Libya it is evident to you that Putin has no integrity, and is probably a servant of the western global elite as was obvious when he allowed Bush to install missile systems on Russia's land borders.

Putin, with a track record so very easily interpreted would defer if America were to launch a pre-emptive nuclear strike -- you see, the secret weapon the west has is PUTIN himself, who would stall on any retaliatory strike and thereby commit Russian sovereignty and independence to history -- be acutely aware Mr Xi, I know of what I speak. You, like all of Putin's former allies would be dumped at the most critical time, have no doubt, this man is not who or what he appears to be!

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2667.html>