

'Suspected' Terrorist Attack in UK

by justin Monday, May 22 2017, 11:51pm

international / prose / post

Updated

Terrorism is primarily defined by killing innocent civilians, whether perpetrated by the American state that killed 500,000 CHILDREN in pre-invasion Iraq and considered it "worth it", English hooligans, Croatian or Ukraine fascists or whoever, it's the ACT that defines itself. YET UK authorities are not 100% sure whether the recent attack at a pop concert was indeed a terrorist attack: now note how the mass media describes it:

"Chief Constable Ian Hopkins from Greater Manchester Police said emergency services were still working at the scene.

"We are currently treating this as a terrorist incident until we have further information. We are working closely with the national counter-terrorism policing network and UK intelligence partners," he said.

"We are still receiving information and updates, so we'll provide further detail when we have a clearer picture."

Interesting to say the least; clearly it was a terrorist EVENT but British police seem to be waiting for manufactured or otherwise, proof of the MUSLIM Jihadi component to CONFIRM it was a terrorist attack. Also note the use of the word "incident" and its grammatical variation 'incidental' in the report, incidental indeed! In an inversion of Shakespeare's famous quote, "methinks he doth protest too much," we have instead, British police not 'protesting' enough because they imagine they lack the 'Muslim' component, which will no doubt be 'proven' in due course. We now have ISIL, a KNOWN Saudi sponsored, US utilised, proxy fighting group accepting responsibility -- no surprises here.

All I, and other semioticians/textual analysts can say is give thinking people a break. I shall be the first to confidently assert that this attack ALREADY reeks of yet another ORCHESTRATED false flag event for POLITICAL reasons/gain. Now note the media saturation post EVENT and contrast with no western reaction to the 500,000 children murdered by the criminal USA. Also, media saturation indicates that elite rulers want some other event/news in the background.

Now people, note what ruling elites really think of expendable slave populations, yet you refuse to see that you are a managed herd of sheep slaughtered whenever elites wish to shock and capitalise on their psychopathic (proven) methods in order to perpetuate their agenda for global domination. Also, as the subtext here implies, there can be no ruling elites without SLAVES, the choice is always YOURS, people! So my question to the people is, have you had enough yet, or would you continue to consume coma-inducing 'false or staged' news and elite propoganda and remain unthinking, nose-ringed SLAVES to the very forces that are the REAL enemy of ALL humanity?

My final word to the elite is, "you can't fool all of the people all of the time," you mass murdering sick bastards!

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2673.html>