

Corbyn Speaks to the People, May speaks to Elites

by jess Friday, Jun 9 2017, 3:11am

international / prose / post

It seems conservatives are very slow learners or rather their elite masters are stuck in failed formulas that no longer gain traction with the increasingly aware, though disillusioned, masses. Trump was the result in the USA and a hung parliament is the result in the UK. The 'pundits' have again failed to see the obvious, as the title suggests. Put simply, ignore or try to deceive the people to your great cost, politicians world-wide.

Tired LIES, and old formulas no longer work, as elite servant Theresa May and her idiot early election team have just discovered, surely world trends should have been noticed, but again, conservatives are traditionally extremely slow learners. Clearly, whichever political party represents the wishes of the people, must surely win in the end, notwithstanding the huge media campaigns the elite owned mass media employs to place their 'own' in power -- which campaigns failed yet again.

I am writing from Australia, and the media here, including the now turncoat ABC, spewed nothing but anti-Corbyn propoganda, and the worst offender was 'the people's' ABC.

Clearly the local ABC has been harnessed, its current, clearly stupid hierarchy has forgotten its strength issues from serving the PEOPLE of Australia without the bias the elite owned mass media is noted for.

The local population once loved THEIR ABC, affectionately calling it 'auntie.' Well, continue toeing the elite line and you would lose EVERYTHING and be absorbed by the media plutocrats as you would have forfeited your real power base and become irrelevant.

The next time we hear, Newsradio, or view outrageous one-sided election reporting we would shove that transparent propoganda shit down your stupid throats for ALL Australia to SEE, be advised; but to return to the elite's failure in the UK.

We would all note that Theresa May was employing elite tactics regarding the suspicious cluster of 'terrorist' attacks and attempting to intervene in the free internet and incorporate tighter social management policies; well, that might suit the global power elite but it surely does not gain ANY traction whatsoever with the masses. Though we are not surprised by UK election results as conservatives are characteristically INSULAR.

I recall for example, a shrewd local conservative premier of NSW, Bob Askin, who once stated openly that NSW was a Labor State and so he adopted a Labor approach and remained in power for full term, doh! However, conservatives world-wide are now completely owned by the elites and as a result MUST follow suicidal elite advice and policies, which are detested by the GLOBAL population. Authoritarian, contractive rule is about as attractive as shit on a stick, but please elites, continue doing what you're doing -- LOL.

To conclude, the US and UK, and soon Australian elections, have PROVEN the failure of elite formulas, including overwhelming (failed) mass media support, as the PEOPLE KNOW BETTER -- are we getting it yet?

Ms May has not only lost her huge majority for no good reason she is now finished, though her advisers have yet to come to that obvious conclusion -- it's game over for her and her undisguised service to elites, are you reading this Oz PM Turnbull?

And for PEOPLE everywhere, take back your nations and governments, as they are YOURS, not the plaything of unrepresentative, tiny MINORITY elites.

<https://tinyurl.com/y9obez2h>

Jungle Drum Prose/Poetry. <http://jungledrum.lingama.net/news/story-2699.html>