

Sayonara America

The Senate Intelligence Committee has revealed that the USA is in crisis, the Committee was organized as an investigation into the integrity of the US president (forget the salad dressing) and or the criminality of the intelligence agencies, which have grouped to destroy Trump, as they feel threatened, just ask, Jim Comey. Though personally I would have no regrets to see Trump dumped; however, who would replace that idiot? Another puppet of course, and so the neocon elite agenda would persist and it is precisely that that should be investigated by the SENATE, not an irrelevant, flawed, buffoon that knows jack about politics and relies on deep state advisors for policies and scripts.

Now, whether it's apparent or not to the average Joe, captured by the distractive/deflective 24 hour news cycle, what the WORLD is witnessing in America is clearly an internal power war by the grouped intel agencies against an elected president -- soak that in for a minute or two.

Of course we know from past experience the NSA, FBI, CIA and other powerful U.S. agencies work directly for the unrepresentative deep state. But (we) the people must all understand what is really occurring as it doesn't forebode well for the American nation and its vassals -- indeed, a house divided must fall, and as I highlighted previously, this is not an irrelevant entertainment matter, as it is presented by our 'trustworthy' mass media, it goes to the very HEART of the nation and its continuing survival -- for example, enemies strike when their opponents are in disarray or are distracted; and I'm not talking about some brainwashed Muslim idiots (that usually work for agencies), I am referring to a preemptive nuclear strike from threatened nations, China and Russia.

The western world today is taking on the appearance of a third world nation of my youth, and that 'third world' today are economic, industrial and technological powerhouses. India today is able to launch heavy (weaponized) satellites into space successfully for one tenth of the price of NASA, enough said or would you prefer 'Making America Great Again,' you mindless morons; you installed Trump rather than one of your own. And how very 'great' is that folly?

We already know that Trump is useless as a politician, notwithstanding he couldn't make a real world leader's toenail. 'Making America Great Trump is in fact now clearly a good case study for students of psychiatry and kindie politics -- but remember this clown is who YOU fuckin' installed and now the entire NATION is in crisis as is the UK.

Furthermore, lay people are able to do better as it couldn't get much worse -- OR COULD IT? Suck on reality for a change not vacuous political slogans and meaningless phrases like "moving forward or light at the end of the tunnel!". 'Yea, forward, into a blackout!'

When, not if, Trump is eliminated, which is inevitable as he is his own worst enemy, then who would fill the vacancy? I would argue someone even worse, though with a more polished, professional political demeanor.

Do not be distracted by the trees in this dying FOREST the big game is really the nation's crisis. Hints and indications of social unrest and the rejection of the status quo have very recently been driven home by the results of the Brexit vote AND the UK general election results, another in which all the pundits got it completely wrong.

I do not exaggerate when I say if real democracy is not restored to all western nations then puppet leaders would face open revolt, as clearly the people have had enough and are able to see through all the bullshit, especially presenting the public with election choices between a turd and a vomit, vis-à-vis, Clinton-Trump.

Though interestingly professionals continue to be mystified why Jeremy Corbyn did so well in the UK; allow me to state the obvious -- because he's more genuinely human than the usual professional, double-talking political frauds. Which presents everyone with an obvious REAL choice, vote for one of YOUR OWN, a fellow human being with integrity that represents you, in contrast to the liars and buffoons feeding you meaningless slogans and empty convoluted phrases. And never forget that (any) nation literally BELONGS to its people, not special minority interests and those that imagine themselves smarter than the rest of us -- as clearly they are NOT; in fact, they are considerably dumber if we look at the current leaders of the UK, USA and Australia -- give me and everyone else a fuckin' break!

I'm heading for a six pack to prevent me from grabbing the key to my gun cabinet.
