

Trump Will Remain President While He Pushes Permanent War Doctrine

Indeed, no matter how crude, misogynistic, down right insane or ill-informed Trumps actions, he will remain president because he pursues the neocon permanent war doctrine, which is the primary pursuit of the deep state.

Any attempted analysis of Trump himself is absurd, as he has no clue regarding foreign policy, world affairs or any other political consideration, his primary concern is himself and it is now clear he would sell-out his own grandmother to remain president -- in other words Trump has the integrity of a 50 cent whore. Trump's two huge sell-outs to date are friendly relations with Russia, an imperative for world peace, and draining the Washington [neocon] swamp. Two, major Trump failures in the first few weeks of his presidency, so if anyone expects better then continue watching American TV, you'll be 'right.'

Trump, now a deep state captured puppet, has become the cheerleader against the Russian 'threat', which does not exist; furthermore he is ignorantly attempting to deal with North Korea with a show of force when it is plain that NK has all the strategic cards regarding an exceedingly costly, in every sense, American military intervention.

China's leader Xi made a monkey out of Trump when Trump boasted over dinner and chocolate cake about the grossly illegal US missile attack on Syria; Xi remained completely calm realising immediately he was dealing with a simpleton dunce attempting to intimidate with lies and bluster -- that is not how intelligent leaders behave when dealing with other military powers, especially one allied to another superpower, Russia, which nation produces accurate missile systems without the need to outsource. It should also be noted that the illegal Trump missile attack was a strategic failure as one third of the 49 missiles launched strayed from their target, unlike Russia's 100% accurate missile guidance systems, proven in the early days of Russia's Syrian LEGAL military intervention.

Whether average Americans are aware that they and their witless, clearly personality flawed, leader are the laughing stock of the entire civilised world depends on how many tune in to the US mass propaganda media apparatus -- which is the largest existing source of lies, misinformation, omissions, propaganda and tailored 'news' in the WORLD, possibly even in history.

The fact is Europe, Asia and most former vassal states are aware that America is in rapid decline, a plainly obvious fact everywhere, but not in insular and frightened America -- to be expected.

But to return to the very simple point. America's raison d'être is WAR as it must feed that grotesque deep state machine otherwise it dies -- so America must kill and destroy in order to survive, as most of its production base has been moved off-shore, only its military production and techno-surveillance systems remain on-shore, without which America would fail, as indeed it would if the world declared permanent peace rather than subscribe to permanent war. An interesting proposition as America ALONE would be forced to break the peace but this time with the entire world as opposition. The WORLD is clearly moving away from needless conflict toward trade, business and greater prosperity for all involved nations, not that average Americans are aware or have any idea.

Now consider the plain choice, perpetual American wars, or business and prosperity? Indeed, America's own ineptitudes, perverse directions and poison ideologies have culminated in Trump and the failure of America in the international political arena and global economy -- the greenback and markets have been kept afloat with QE, Quantitative Easing, a 'solution' guaranteed to destroy any economy that depends on constantly printing valueless paper money from thin air without productive support; indeed, Wall Street is essentially populated with gamblers and PAPER SHUFFLERS -- that is not production!

The global community is becoming aware that the greenback is poised to fail in the very near future due to the pathological avarice and unbridled criminality of major Wall Street banks and other corporate players. The economic charade is in tatters today and the WORLD is aware why America always reaches for the gun to solve any problem, though it is clear the gun doesn't solve the Korean problem or the problems of any nation that has been interfered with by the criminal USA -- simply take a look with your own eyes, pre-invaded nations were much better off than after American intervention. You would soon realise that the only interests that benefit from American criminal wars are Corporations/Banks, while tens of millions of innocent people have been killed or displaced, a cost the banks and corporations responsible for the 'perpetual war' doctrine are willing to pay, BUT note they pay for their greed and blunders with innocent lives, NOT their own. Do you see a problem here? If not stay tuned to your American media, maintain your opiate habits, now supplied by Big Pharma and of course, remain in the American dreamworld.
