

USA: The World's Leading Failed State

by jane Saturday, Sep 16 2017, 6:46pm

international / prose / post

Largely disregarded today, the founding documents of the US remain among the most noble documents written for any government and its people. The US Constitution and Bill of Rights enshrine the best model for rulership and fair government, notwithstanding the brazen hypocrisy of those that penned them. Nevertheless, every nation should aspire to fulfil their noble aspirations and intention to create a just society. But tragically the nation that produced them is the worst offender of its own ideals, which in no way diminishes the value of these documents, they remain a reminder of how things should be in America.

Imagine if America pursued peace with the same manic zeal as it does (perpetual) war. The leaders of weaker nations would have little choice but to conform, as America's ideals are common to the longings of all humankind. Yet having risen to dominance America abuses itself and other nations, it LIES profusely CHEATS and STEALS from other weaker nations, such a cruel horrid abuse. Perhaps I am an idealist but what would you, perpetual war, theft and mass murder, or PEACE? And therein is the nation's dilemma as it is encoded that the people are OBLIGED to remove any government that betrays and is destructive of the nation's ideals. And so the FAILURE is not only of government but of the people, WE THE PEOPLE!

No external blame is available to the American people as the founding documents call on the population to set things right, Americans have the right to bare arms for a reason but what value a right if it is not exercised appropriately?

The entire world is aware of the problem, the Zionist neocons, rogue CIA, NSA and other agencies, a controlled deceptive media, all of which combined forces flagrantly oppress their own population and plot murder and theft for other weaker nations. The combined effect of these heinous forces comprise the 'shadow government' and 'deep state,' which are about as unrepresentative and unconstitutional as it is possible to be. And so quite clearly the FAILURE of the nation is its people.

May REAL America rest in peace, and may the hijacked nation of today, which has the dubious 'honour' of being the world's leading civilian killing nation, among other criminal, anti-constitutional travesties, soon reap what it sows. However, people, it's never too late to set things right, the RESPONSIBILITY falls to the American people alone as is clear -- surely, a handful of thieving, mass murdering criminal psychopaths are no match for any population. Almost all of America's state institutions today are rotten and corrupt to the core.